E. B. McLean Says No.
Queer Gen. Smuts.
Some Good, Some Bad.
What We Think, We Are.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 27.

EDWARD B. McLEAN told the court here that he did not wish to sell his Washington Post. That, for the time, settles the talk of a sale, which requires Mr. McLean's consent, under his father's will.

MR. McLEAN looked well and cheerful, having his photograph taken, outside the courthouse, arm in arm with Mrs. Eleanor Patterson, editor of the Washington Herald, and his rival in Washington's morning newspaper field.

They seemed friendly rivals, none of the old feeling that made the Washington Post call the New York World a yellow dog, long ago, when McLean was a little boy, and Mrs. Patterson had not been born.

Some of that fighting rivalry might be good for circulation.

GEN. Jan Christian Smuts, of the South African Republic, a British dominion, appreciates the suggestion that South Africa may stop paying interest on her debt to Britain, for one year, under the moratorium, but says NO. He declares:

"We are able to pay our debts, and therefore we shall do so."

South Africa, he says, does not propose to "climb down" on its debt.

Very eccentric person, Gen. Smuts. Uncle Sam can name for him great nations able to pay, but willing to "climb down," with a swiftness strictly in accordance with Newton's law.

THE NEWS of each day is like an old-fashioned layer cake, or a slice of neapolitan ice cream, one layer better than the other.

Immigration to this country is now lowest in 66 years, which means that ambitious men and women, with courage and new ideas, the sort that made this country, are shut out. That is BAD news.

THE AMERICAN LIBRARY Association, in conference at New Haven, completed with ease a $1,000,000 endowment fund and will get another million from a foundation, not named. The money will be used, largely, for "adult education," which is important and neglected.

Millions of men and women past 30, and past 50, long for education and would make good use of it. That is GOOD news.

WASHINGTON BELIEVES that President Hoover plans to help, financially, our neighbors in South America. Conditions there are bad, because of the drop in commodity prices. Argentina suffers from the low price of wheat; Chile is hurt by the drop in metals, and Brazil by demoralization of the coffee market.

THE COFFEE that we once bought from Brazil for $200,000,000, we now buy for 45 millions, same amount, same quality.

American business, which has greatly increased in South America, steadily turning toward us, and away from Europe, will be glad to know that South America will have help.

SOME MODERN TEACHERS, healers, orientalists, etc., tell you man is nothing but his own thought. WHAT YOU THINK YOU ARE. It does not work out 100 per cent, unfortunately. You cannot think yourself out of a cold in the head, or into a job.

But a general mental condition is important. For instance, Germany had been pouring gold into the United States. We were getting so much of it that our Treasury was worried, and Germany was being rapidly depleted.

THERE IS TALK and thought about a moratorium, one year's suspension of war debt payments, all around. The outlook of business and the world becomes more cheerful. German exchange rises, and following the President's announcement, the Germans find it unnecessary to forward a large gold shipment already loaded on the Bremen

It is taken off the ship and back to the Reichsbank.

IT REALLY IS a flying age. Lindbergh is preparing to fly the Pacific with his wife

Post and Gatty, having flown in record time from America to Berlin and Moscow are on their way from Moscow, across Siberia. Next important stop Irkutsk, 2,600 miles from Moscow.

THE TWO plucky Danes, that flew the Atlantic "just for the fun of it," one a middle-aged man, landed safely at Bremen and then flew to Denmark. Copenhagen sat up all night to welcome them.

Two plucky Japanese fliers, newspaper reporters, passed each other, above British soil, on their way around the world in opposite directions. They are Sutemaru Shingu, of Osaka Asahi, eastbound, and Kenzo Fukuma, of the Tokio Asahi, westbound.

Preparations for a dozen other world flights are under way in this and other countries.

IN ALL BIG CITIES there is starting "lighter summer clothes for men" movements. The average man goes about in hot weather boiling, with four thicknesses of wool and cotton keep-

DRAMA PUPIL LEFT HOME MONDAY

Disappears While on Errand For Mother; Hunts Start For 2 Others, Boy and Girl

Search is being made by the Missing Persons Bureau for Luella Nogart, 17, missing from her home at 228 Evergreen avenue, Millvale, since June 22, when she left for Pittsburgh on an errand for her mother, Mrs. Pearl Nogart.

Miss Nogart, sometimes known as Luella McVettie, is a dramatic student at the Mt. Rose School for Girls, Cumberland, Md., where she excelled in athletics. She is a member of the Girl Scouts, is 5 feet 4 inches tall, weighs 128 pounds and is a brunette. At the time of her disappearance she was wearing a black dress and red coat.

The bureau also was asked to search for Eleanor Soltz, 16, of 140 Main street, Willock, who has been missing since last Sunday, when she was seen getting into the automobile of a well-dressed young man. The girl is employed in Pittsburgh and was spending Sunday with her parents.

Believed to have left town with a circus, which appeared here recently, Eugene Sohl, 15, of 5203 Glen way, is missing from his home, according to a report to the Missing Persons Bureau by his mother, Mrs. Jennie Sohl. He disappeared June 17. Sohl, a Boy Scout and a student at Central High School, had frequently expressed a desire to find employment for the summer, his mother said.

TAXI STRIKERS CONSIDER PEACE

The taxicab strike may end this afternoon, when a meeting of the drivers known in taxi parlance as "old heads" will be held in Motor Square Garden.

The strikers' committee has been invited to speak to the drivers. After listening to what the committee has to say the drivers will probably take a vote as to whether they wish to continue or end the walkout, which has kept the public and the majority of the drivers themselves guessing for over two weeks as to just what the strike is all about.

Several hours after a taxicab had been reported stolen it was found wrecked late last night in Armitage way, East End police said. Yellow Cab Company officials said the cab, one of 148 being used in its effort to break the strike, had been stolen from Center and Aiken avenues. Police said it was driven to Harvard and Negley avenues and pushed over the hill to Armitage way.

CHICAGO, June 27.—(INS.)—Staying on the cabin cruiser Aloha, and trying to save it rather than joining three passengers on a life raft, Frank Matson, 32, skipper of the boat, today lost his life when the boat exploded in Lake Michigan.

The passengers, inspecting the boat to buy it, were saved by canoeists.

MELLON BIDS FOR DEBT HARMONY

Secretary Confers With French Premier; Deputies Uphold Ministry's Stand

PARIS, June 27.—(A.P.)—Momentous negotiations seeking to harmonize the French and American viewpoints on President Hoover's debt suspension proposal opened opened shortly after 10 o'clock this morning between Andrew W. Mellon, American secretary of the treasury, and Premier Laval.

The conversations started shortly after the arrival of Mr. Mellon and Ambassador Edge at the ministry of the interior.

LAVAL MISSES SLEEP

Premier Laval, who had been up most of the night attending debate on his policy regarding the Hoover plan, had been able to catch only a two-hour nap this morning.

He went to the conference with a 286 to 189 vote of confidence from the chamber after debate that had lasted most of yesterday and throughout the night until 6 o'clock this morning.

It was understood every effort would be made to reach some degree of agreement today while some of the world's stock exchanges were closed and there was no intention of having any conference tomorrow.

Deputies' Vote Reduces Obstacles to Agreement

WASHINGTON, June 27.—(A.P.)—Intent and expectant, President Hoover today kept in close communication with Parisian conference rooms where representatives of two governments sought to remove immediate obstacles to an inter-governmental debt holiday.

The difficulties were reduced by one overnight with the French

Mellon, Hoover Talk By 'Phone Across Sea

PARIS, June 27.—(A.P.)—The trans-Atlantic telephone connecting the United States embassy with Washington played a useful part in Secretary Mellon's preparations for today's conference with French statesmen about the Hoover plan.

Mr. Mellon telephoned to Washington—presumably to the President—several times last night, and again this morning he was on the trans-Atlantic line.

Lightning Tosses Couple From Bed

Freak lightning hurled Mr. and Mrs. Fred F. Woitas from their beds at 124 Bigham street, Mt. Washington, during the height of the storm early today.

A cut over the husband's right eye was the only visible trace of the accident. Examination of the house at dawn failed to disclose that it had been struck.

ALL PAPERS OF MAYOR GO BEFORE JURY

Some Notes Reported Thrown Away; More Brokerage Heads to be Subpenaed

All stenographic records and other papers in the office of Mayor Charles H. Kline have been subpenaed for presentation Monday before the grand jury investigating city purchases by the Department of Supplies. Other developments today were:

1—Summoning representatives of about six brokerage houses to produce records bearing on stock transactions by city officials and others. Additional brokerage house officials will be subpenaed Monday.

2—Records of deposits and other transactions by various individuals to be laid before the jury by more than a score of banks already summoned, with many more subpenas in prospect.

3—Books and other records of the A. L. Brahm Company being scanned by auditors for Main & Co., who conducted the city supplies audit for the Citizens Committee.

HINT RECORDS DESTROYED

There were reports about City Hall that many of the records which the jury has asked for have been destroyed. Stenographic records in particular, it was rumored, are admitted to have been thrown away.

Just what it is desired to show by summoning the bank representatives could not be learned, but the records of deposits and other transactions are likely to prove important.

The district attorney's office yesterday subpenaed leading stock brokerage houses for records of stock transactions of Mayor Kline, Mrs. Kline, City Treasurer Roy D. Schooley, City Solicitor C. A. Waldschmidt, Frank Swaney, the Mayor's secretary, and former director of the Department of Supplies, Bertram L. Succop.

KLINE SIGNS BOND

Mayor Kline and Succop, now under indictment, yesterday posted bail for $5,000 each for their appearance at court trial.

Both were accorded rare privilege in the signing of their bail bonds. Signatures were personally signed in the bail bond book in the Courthouse, but the record room of S. J. Topley, clerk of courts, was used for the purpose. Only on rare occasions is the bail bond book signed in any other place than on the front counter of the Clerk of Court's office. The private room was used to permit the accused men to escape being photographed signing the bonds.

DENY RESPONSIBILITY

Topley denied responsibility for the unusual procedure. He said:

"I was out of the office. The matter was in the hands of Charles F. Schempp, deputy clerk."

Schempp said:

"I think the Mayor came through the tunnel from the City-County Building and went to the second floor on his way to the District Attorney's office, John Mageem, a clerk in this office, saw him and told him I had the docket book in the record room. He came in and signed it there.

"Succop did the same thing, but not under the same circumstances.

"I don't know why they are making so much fuss about this. I handled two other bonds besides the Mayor's and Succop's in the record room this morning. I had the book up there for an hour. I often take it out to hospitals, to homes and to the county jail."

Irish to Ban U. S. Sweepstakes Money

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, June 27.—(A.P.)—All Irish banks have agreed, at the request of the United States Postoffice, to return all money or counter foils received in the future from sweepstake subscribers in the United States.

It was said bank managers had been informed that, unless they did this, letters addressed to them would be subject to delay and inspection.

NEW REVOLTS SWEEP SPAIN

MADRID, June 27.—(INS.)—A widespread counter-revolutionary movement was under way in the province of Galicia today.

With business paralyzed by a general strike, leaders of the insurrectionary movement were reported to have threatened complete secesion by nightfall.

According to latest reports, the unrest has spread to other sections of Spain. Troops were confined to their barracks at Barcelona and other cities.

Balky Auto Causes Boy's Return Home

WASHINGTON, June 27.—(A.P.)—A week of wandering in a battered and balky automobile has reconciled Ivan Perez 18, son of the Cuban commercial attache, to accompanying his family to London.

The youth returned home just a week after he fled, leaving behind the message that he did not wish to leave the United States. His father had been transferred to London and is already in England.

ROBBERS LOCK MAN IN ICEBOX

Muffled cries issuing from a sub-station of the Peoples Ice Company at 2213 Bedford avenue attracted a passerby, who broke the door and released Dan Sheaffer, the attendant, imprisoned there by a Negro robber, who escaped with more than $50.

Sheaffer said the robber entered the sub-station while he was counting the day's receipts preparatory to sending it to the Bloomfield plant. Sticking a revolver in his side, Sheaffer said, the Negro pocketed the money, forced him into the ice chamber and fled after locking the door.

East End police today are investigating a safe robbery at the Beckwith Machinery Company, 6550 Hamilton avenue.

The robbers knocked off the combination of a safe on the second floor of the building and escaped with $150.

17 Face Inquiry In 'Poison Picnic'

GREENFIELD, Ind., June 27.—(INS.) — Investigation of the "poison picnic" shifted to this town today as Mrs. Carrie Barrett Simmons, held for the murder of her two daughters, continued to protest her innocence. All the Lebanon (Ind.) guests were questioned yesterday and today the 17 others who attended the fatal family reunion were summoned.

Hurled From Truck By Crash, Escapes

QUAKERTOWN, Pa., June 27.—(A.P.)—James Kersteller, 20, of State College, Pa., escaped with cuts and bruises when a northbound Reading express struck his truck on Rock Hill crossing yesterday. He was hurled from the truck and landed in a pile of sand. The truck was wrecked.

Stocks Hit New High Levels

NEW YORK, June 27.—Stocks bounced forward again today to new high levels for the current bull movement.

Early prices were off slightly from last night's close but the selling was quickly absorbed and the upward swing resumed. Steel common opened off more than a point but rallied vigorously to a new high above 104, accompanied on the rise by such issues as Westinghouse, Case, duPont, Telephone, Can and a half dozen others of the old "blue chip" contingent.

Man Wounding Four Slain by Policeman

JACKSON, Mich., June 27.—(A.P.)—A man who barricaded himself in his home was killed by a policeman here late last night after he had wounded his wife and three policemen, including the one who killed him. A bystander also was shot.

The man, William Rightsell, was shot down by patrolman Claire Tallman, who advanced to the house under protection of a barrage of machine gun bullets.

Bombs Explode Near Palace in Genoa

GENOA, Italy, June 27.—(A.P.)—Four bombs were exploded here early today, shattering many windows and damaging the walls of several buildings. Police arrested hundreds of suspects.

The bombs went off at half-hour intervals, awakening the populace over a wide area in the center of the city and creating a semblance of panic. One exploded near the royal palace.

$300,000 LOSS IN OIL FIRE

Spontaneous combustion today was believed to have caused a fire which late yesterday burned through the three-story brick lubricating oil plant of the Freedom Oil Works in Freedom, resulting in a loss of $300,000, according to E. H. Dischoffberger, general manager of the company.

A series of 25 explosions scattered burning debris over the fire area, endangering 23 tanks containing 300,000 gallons of lubricating oil in the rear of the building.

A firewall separating the burning building from the tanks in the rear, and a brick garage at one side, separating it from a two-story office building, prevented a spread of the flames.

When Freedom firemen arrived they found the fire beyond their control and broadcast an appeal for help. Engines were sent from Beaver, Baden, Rochester and East Rochester, and the Pennsylvania Railroad sent a pumper locomotive from the Conway yards which pumped water from the Ohio River a few hundred feet from the fire.

Traffic on the main line of the Pennsylvania was tied up for almost an hour.

Renounces 2 Nations To Be U. S. Citizen

LOS ANGELES, June 27.—(A.P.)—Just to make sure, Bela Lugosi, film actor, who took a leading role in the screen thriller "Dracula," renounced allegiance yesterday to both Rumania and Hungary, so he could become a citizen of the United States.

Lugosi said he was not certain whether his home town, Lugos, formerly of Hungary, is still in that country or in Rumania.

Boston Society Matron Leaps Into River

BOSTON, June 27.—(INS.)—After leaving a note to her mother, stating she planned to end her life, according to police, Mrs. Virginia K. Dodge Taylor, Boston society girl, went to Harvard Bridge, calmly lit a cigaret, walked down several steps leading from the steps and plunged into the Charles River early today.

Several passing automobilists saw the incident and stopped their cars. Two threw her life preservers, but she took no notice of them. Roy Rawlston, a taxi driver, jumped into the river and succeeded in dragging her ashore. She was taken unconscious to City Hospital, where her condition was said to be serious.

Mrs. Taylor, a graduate of Radcliffe College, and founder of the Radcliffe Riding Club, was the wife of George Rancom Taylor, a direct descendant of President Zachary Taylor. She had been estranged from her husband.

MINE STRIKERS PLAN MARCH HERE JUNE 30

Will Demand Cash Relief; Crippled Miner Beaten; Organizer Waylaid, Shot

BULLETIN.

Permission for the mass demonstration of strike miners and unemployed steel workers under the banner of the National Miners Union was granted today by Police Superintendent Peter F. Walsh. A parade will be permitted from West Park on the North Side, across the Manchester Bridge to Duquesne way and back to the north Side across the Sixth Street Bridge.

While reports from the strike zone outside of Pittsburgh indicated strongly a return of strength in the ranks of the United Mine Workers of America, the National Miners' Union, sponsoring the insurgent walkout of miners throughout the Western Pennsylvania bituminous fields, went ahead with plans for a mass demonstration in Pittsburgh June 30.

A verbal promise, it was announced at headquarters of the National Miners Union, had been obtained for a march from the North Side to the Courthouse from Supt. of Police Peter F. Walsh. Efforts are being made today for a written permit.

WANT CASH RELIEF

During the course of the parade, a committee will visit the County Commissioners' office with demands for cash relief for all unemployed, state unemployment insurance, abolition of injunctions, the right to strike, meet and picket, no evictions and withdrawal of armed police forces in the strike areas.

Coroner W. J. McGregor set July 7 as the date for the inquest into the fatal shooting of Peter Zigarac at Wildwood. The coroner reiterated his intention of calling witnesses from both sides. He said:

"I will call witnesses impartially and let the jury decide where the responsibility for Zigarac's death lies."

CRIPPLE BEATEN

Charged with an attack on a crippled miner at Cedar Grove, near Avella, three leaders of the National Miners' Union were in the Washington County Jail today. They are Charles Krunable, Charles Boswell and Daniel Lane. They are alleged to have beaten Louis Polinskie.

Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation mines reported practically 100 per cent return of their men today. Only a handful of pickets met the returning miners this morning and no disorders were reported.

Mystery surrounds the shooting yesterday, near Brownsville, of Joseph Thornton, 27, of Mannington, W. Va., said to be an organizer of the United Mine Workers. Thornton, it was said, was critically wounded. Police are investigating a report that he was waylaid in an automobile en route to a mine at Chartiers.

BLEDSOE CASE NEAR JURY

UNIONTOWN, Pa., June 27.—The case of R. C. Bledsoe, former county detective charged with the murder of Elmer Younkin, was expected to be given to the jury today.

Special Prosecutor A. E. Jones was to argue that the commonwealth had woven around Bledsoe a convincing chain of circumstantial evidence and ask the jury to convict him on whatever charge they deemed the evidence warranted. The prosecution holds that elements of first degree murder have been shown in the case, but a lesser verdict would be acceptable.

Attorney H. S. Dumbauld, for the defense, asked that the jury either acquit Bledsoe or return a verdict of first degree murder.

MELLON SEEKS DEBT HARMONY

Chamber of Deputies' approval of its ministry's attitude toward the moratorium proposal.

There was, however, no effort to minimize the delicacy with which the next work must be accomplished.

ONE MAJOR DIFFERENCE

There was one important difference between the Washington and Paris — President Hoover's stand that the debt suspension include all intergovernmental payments and the French insistence that there be no interruption in Germany's unconditional reparations installments.

In addition, the United States administration had to take into consideration that pledges of congressional support made earlier in the week were based largely upon the assumption that there would be no modification of the President's plan as originally announced.

STIMSON ON WAY

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Ambassador Edge bore the brunt of negotiations in Paris today, while Secretary of State Stimson was en route for Europe to join the conferences.

The White House was ready to transmit to Hoover at his Rapidan fishing camp all developments as soon as they materialized. Direct telephone wires were available.

Weather Conditions.

Temperatures were high yesterday everywhere from Central Ohio westward to the Rocky Mountains and southward to the Gulf. The highest reported was 104 degrees at Huron, S. D., and at Valentine, Neb. The night temperatures also were high throughout that area. Over Eastern Ohio, the lake region and eastward to the coast, high temperatures were prevented by thunderstorm conditions. Showers and thunderstorms were quite general over that section. The rainfall was light generally, but heavy in some localities where they were accompanied by high wind. Relatively high pressure covers most of the eastern half of the country, while a well defined low is centered over Northern Manitoba.

Men would live longer, more happily and more usefully, if they would let the air reach their bodies.

WOMEN'S CLOTHING, thin, loose and scanty, lets the pores breathe, and a cancer expert says that, in consequence, cancer of the skin has become rarer among women.

Men keep close to their bodies the poisons eliminated in perspiration, and thus poison themselves. "Everything light, loose, porous" should be man's dress motto in summer, and stores should encourage it, with great bargains in cotton, linen and silk summer wear.

Drys Plan Penna. Drive; See Crucial Year in '32

WASHINGTON, June 27.—(AP.)—Plans for a concerted drive in Pennsylvania, extending to the 1932 presidential elections, to elect only candidates committed to prohibition, were reviewed yesterday to a "board of strategy" of the allied forces for prohibition.

Describing 1932 as "the most crucial year in the history of prohibition," Dr. Homer W. Tope, superintendent of the Pennsylvania Anti-Saloon League, told the session adherents of the Eighteenth Amendment were "ready to meet the challenge of the wets" in the state.

Tope said anti-prohibitionist organizations in the state were armed to make their greatest bid to date for the election of anti-dry public officials. He added:

"... have plenty of money and are willing to spend it on organization."

"The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment is made up mostly in Pennsylvania of millionaire holders of old brewery stock, and they want to realize on their old investments.

"They are starting a campaign for election of district attorneys and judges in the various counties this fall and they are determined to win seats in Congress next year as well as elect an anti-dry. They also want the state enforcement law repealed."

Beginning September 20, the Anti-Saloon League, he said, will conduct a series of conventions in every county lasting until October 25, to form working organizations for this year's elections.

NAUTILUS NEAR SHIPYARD FOR REPAIRS

Sub Moored at Plymouth On Way to Devonport; Wilkins Welcomes Wife

By W. T. ROBERTS
Universal Service Special Cable.

PLYMOUTH, England, June 27.—The Polar submarine Nautilus, with Sir Hubert Wilkins aboard, arrived at Plymouth from Cork, Ireland, last evening, and was moored between Drake's Island and the mainland.

The undersea boat glistened in the sunshine as she came in tow of the Irish tug Morsecock, flying the Free State flag. The Nautilus, arriving too late to be taken up the river, will be towed to the Devonport dockyard for repairs today.

GREETS LADY WILKINS

Sir Hubert was full of pep and in fine health. He waved his hat delightedly to Lady Wilkins, who was rushed out to the submarine aboard a launch to greet him.

Later Sir Hubert and Lady Wilkins left Plymouth for London, whence Sir Hubert will fly to Bergen, Norway, via Berlin.

Before leaving, Wikins arranged with the superintendent of the naval dockyard at Devonport for berthing the Nautilus and installing new engine cylinders and a new armature in the port motor. Sir Hubert said:

"It might be possible to put the Nautilus in condition for Arctic work by the transfer of a cylinder from the port engine to the starboard engine, giving us a complete unit of 500 horsepower, which is really the size we would ordinarily install in a new vessel designed for this work.

MAY SAIL IN TWO WEEKS

"This, however, would leave us with the use of only one propeller on a twin-screw boat, but this might be remedied by connecting the existing motor with the tailshaft on the port side, thus giving us both screws for operating when submerged.

"I shall go to Bergen from Berlin to discuss with Prof. Sverdrup the possibilities of working late this season in Arctic regions. At Bergen we plan to complete the reconditioning of the Nautilus.

"The new cylinders and armature are aboard the Mauretania, which arrives at Plymouth Tuesday. Two weeks from then we ought to be in a position to sail for the Arctic."

CARNEGIE ART DIRECTOR HOME

Painting Not Neglected Abroad Just Because of Depression, He Declares

By PENELOPE REDD

Homer Saint-Gaudens, director of fine arts at Carnegie Institute, returned to Pittsburgh this morning from a four months' European tour to assemble paintings for the Thirtieth Carnegie International Exhibition of Modern Paintings. He said:

"Just because of the depression, Europe is not neglecting art. I understand that Austria, poor and small as the nation is, makes up an annual deficit of over $500,000 to support her opera and national theater.

DEPRESSION LESS

"Economically, Europe is not affected as the United States is. The depression is much less. There is no question in my mind after my visit, especially to Eastern Europe, that there has been a tremendous improvement in conditions in the last three years.

"From my point of view, through Czechoslovakia, Austria, Hungary, Poland, and Germany the social order is universally better, and consequently the conditions are universally better for Art, which depends not only financially but also nervously upon its surrounding conditions.

"Bad times may be upon the world, but in no one of these countries was there a retrogression from what I saw three years ago, and in Poland I noted a most extraordinary advance.

"I do not feel any lack of optimism among the European artists because of economic conditions."

NO STARTLING CHANGES

Director Saint-Gaudens found no startling changes in European art. He declared:

"The young men these days are not bringing in many innovations; rather, they are taking innovations that have been started some time ago and re refining and modifying them.

"I am confident that we are going to have a splendid show this year. The American section will be at its usual fine standard. The European artists have never been more eager to send. The prestige of the Carnegie exhibition has been growing tremendously in Europe."

Coolidge Urges States Keep Utilities Control

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., June 27.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

Frequently unjustifiable complaints are made concerning the conduct of public utilities engaged in the power and light business. Usually the complaint is not against the company itself, its service, or rates, but against what the owners of its securities have done with them. The company or its management should not be blamed because some one has set up a contrivance to speculate in its securities. If the speculation is injurious to the public, let it be regulated or abolished by the states. It has no necessary connection with furnishing power and light.

Mr. Coolidge

The public utilities are under control of the states. The federal government has jurisdiction over them only when they engage in interstate commerce, which is a small fraction of their business. The Congress can regulate that.

Their rates, service and capitalization are all subject to local law. The states should keep jurisdiction over them and not surrender it to the nation. The main subject is clearly one of state rights. If there are local abuses the states can remove them. We cannot improve the condition of the people or reform human nature by intruding the nation into the affairs of the states, or despoiling the people of their business.

HEAT STORMS TAKE SECOND LIFE AS YOUTH DROWNS

COOL WEATHER FOLLOWS RAINS

South Hills Hard Hit Again As Lightning Wrecks Fire And Light Signal Systems

The severe rain and electric storms which have swept the Pittsburgh district intermittently for more than 24 hours, claimed a second life late yesterday, created more traffic hazards and caused additional damage to property. Following one of the worst storms in history yesterday morning, additional storms occurred late yesterday and this morning.

Beaten about by waves created by the wind and rain, Charles Sabow, 20, of 1350 Fifth avenue, Arnold, was drowned in the Allegheny River at the Valley Camp Beach near Arnold late yesterday. His body was recovered several hours later.

2ND DEATH IN STORM

The youth's death was the second caused by the storms here. Yesterday morning Mrs. Bessie Sullivan, 44, of 3939 Clement way, died during the height of the storm from cerebral hemorrhage, induced by fright.

The rains yesterday apparently had broken the heat wave which gripped Pittsburgh Wednesday and Thursday.

Overcast skies today kept the temperature down, it being 76 about noon. A slight rise was expected during the day.

Local showers were forecast for this afternoon and tonight.

The storm this morning struck principally in the South Hills district. A lightning flash entered No. 23 Engine House which adjoins the Carrick Police Station in Brownsville road, putting out of commission the fire alarm system.

The Carrick district was thrown into darkness for nearly a half hour when lightning struck several power lines.

BRICKS HURLED TO STREET

Street car service along Grandview avenue, Duquesne Heights, was halted for two hours this morning while light company employes repaired broken wires. Lightning had knocked a wire across the car tracks near Oneida street.

Bricks showered into the street early today when lightning struck the roof of the Cathedral Mantions apartment house at Ellsworth avenue and Clyde eet. Although some of the bricks fell upon automobiles parked in the street, no serious damage was reported.

PARK GROUP PERILED

Several persons who sought shelter in the entrance to one of the scenic railways in West View Park were endangered late yesterday when a large tree was blown across the roof, crushing it.

One of the baby blimps of the Goodyear Rubber Company, Akron, O., gave residents of the Pittsburgh district a thrill late yesterday as it battled its way through the storm en route to the Ohio city. Several attempts to land the blimp were made.

SEEK ROCKVIEW FUGITIVES HERE

Pittsburgh police and detectives today are on the lookout for a Pittsburgh man and another prisoner who escaped early this morning from Rockview Penitentiary at Bellefonte.

They got away while walking from the cell block to the mess hall, where they were to work in the kitchen.

The Pittsburgher, penitentiary officals said, is Kenneth Reed, 28, under sentence of 4 to 12 years for entering a building and stealing an automobile. His companion Fred Williams, 27, of South Carolina, was sentenced to serve from 8 to 16 years for breaking and entering, larceny and receiving stolen goods. He was sentenced in Erie County.

The men made their escape shortly after they arose to report to work in the prison kitchen. Prison officials said the two apparently had little difficulty as the stockade is in bad repair.

TWO HURT WHEN AUTO PLUNGES 25 FEET

Man, Daughter in Stowe Township Accident; Other Mishaps Injure Three

A father and daughter narrowly escaped injury when their automobile plunged over an embankment in Benwood avenue, Stowe Township, and dropped 25 feet late yesterday. John Nemser, 45, of 604-B Broadway, McKees Rocks, and his daughter, Myra, 17, riding in the machine, were cut and bruised.

The accident occurred, police say, when Nemser applied his brakes while descending Benwood avenue. The car skidded from the road and dropped into Dohrman avenue.

Andrew J. Schwaborn, 55, of 4518 Forbes street, was taken to the Homeopathic Hospital with injuries to his right leg early today, after he had been hit by an automobile in Forbes street near Bellefield avenue. Police said the machine was driven by Rocco DiPippo, of 239 Calvert street. DiPippo, known to police here as "Roxey Long," was not arrested.

Joseph M. Wilson, 28, a truck driver of 450 North avenue, Millvale, was cut and bruised this morning when his truck was struck by the machine of Joseph Lyman, 29, of 6204 Alter street, on the westbound ramp of the Boulevard of the Allies in Oakland. Lyman was arrested. Wilson was treated at the Mercy Hospital.

Michael Pawanda, of 133 South Twelfth street, was in the South Side Hospital today with a fracture of the leg, received, police said, when he was struck by a machine driven by Frank Colenda, of 104 Brownsville avenue, near Pawanda's home.

COUNTY DROPS SPAN JOB QUIZ

County Commissioners have deferred action on complaints that the American Bridge Company, erecting the West End-North Side Bridge, refused to hire steel workers who live in Allegheny County.

Two unemployed petitioners last week offered to submit the names of 50 American Bridge Company employes who do not live in this county. Yesterday they presented to the commissioners the names of 24 persons, who lived, they said, in Ohio, New York, Arkansas, Kentucky, North Carolina and Alabama.

Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong declared he would offer a motion ordering the contractors to stop work until they agreed to employ local men. Armstrong suggested that the petitioners join the union.

The subject was dropped with the implication that the commissioners were powerless to remedy the situation.

IRON WORKERS BACK TO JOBS

Work will be resumed Monday on two schools and three large downtown buildings with the signing of an agreement yesterday, bringing to an end the strike of bridge and structural iron workers. The wage scale agreement signed by the Building Trades Employers' Association and Local No. 3, Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers' Union, will be in effect until May 31, 1932. The agreement calls for payment of $1.50 an hour and substitution of a five-day week for the former five and one-half days. The iron workers asked for a raise from $1.50 to $1.65 an hour.

The buildings affected by the strike included the Gulf Refining, Bell Telephone and Mellon Institute buildings, and the Arsenal Trade and Knoxville schools.

FLIERS NEARING END OF ASIA CROSSING

Post, Gatty Leave Irkutsk For Khabarovsk on World Tour; Hop to Alaska Next International News Service.

IRKUTSK, June 27.—Wiley Post and Harlod Gatty, the whirlwind American globe-girdlers left this city today for Kharbarovsk. They left the local airport after a rest of 2 hours and 15 minutes and hoped to make Kharbarovsk, 1,100 miles away in nine hours.

The aviators covered the 1,037 miles from Novo-Sibirsk in six hours and 10 minutes and should easily make their Far Eastern destination before nightfall. The white-winged monoplane was still functioning perfectly upon its arrival here and Post said that he expected to continue his flight at the average speed of 150 miles per hour.

Post and Gatty slipped down from dripping skies into the airport here, on the border of Mongolia, last midnight.

ALASKA NEXT STOP

The flight from Novo-Sibirsk over the Ural Mountains to this city was considered one of the most treacherous laps of their round-the-world flight, owing to the nature of the unexplored terrain and the inclement weather.

If the Winnie Mae continues at its present speed Post and Gatty may circle the globe in eight days instead of 10 as scheduled. At any rate, it seemed almost certain that they would beat the 20-day record established by the Graf Zeppelin in 1929.

The next stop on the Winnie Mae's schedule after Khabarovsk is Nome, Alaska, which lies across the Bering Straits from Northeastern Siberia.

Hillig to Hop Again; King Knights Hoiriis

When it was reported that the Liberty was nearing Copenhagen four Danish military planes went out to meet it. They escorted the Liberty back to Copenhagen.

As the Liberty came down at the airfield, crowds rushed through the police cordon, surrounded the plane and lifted Hillig and his young pilot, Hoiriis, to their shoulders.

Premier Stauning congratulated the airmen warmly. Later they were taken to the headquarters of the Danish Aeronautic Society, where they were presented a gold medal.

In the afternoon Hillig and Hoiriis were received by King Christian at the Copenhagan City Hall. Then the King conferred a knighthood upon Hoiriis for his handling of the plane.

As one might expect in the final week-end of June, weddings dominate society's interest. First of all, at 5:30 o'clock Peggy Milligan, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Milligan, will become the bride of Myron H. Wilson, Jr., of Cleveland, in the garden of the Milligan Sewickley Heights estate.

The marriage will be one of the largest and most important socially in several years. There'll be over 600 guests at the wedding.

Last night the junior G. H. Singers gave a dance in the Allegheny Country Club for Peggy and her bridegroom-to-be, and a number of small dinners preceded the event.

Another wedding today of interest here took place at noon in St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Nantucket, Mass., followed by a breakfast and reception in the Nantucket Yacht Club.

Married In East

The bride was Christine Patten Reed, daughter of the Robert Rentoul Reeds, of Greystone-on-Hudson, Yonkers, New York, and the bridegroom, George A. Cameron, Jr., son of Mrs. Reynolds Driver Brown, of Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia. The bride is related to the Reeds, Bairds and Achesons, of Washington, Pa., and Pittsburgh.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore ivory satin with a lace veil, and Eleanor Reed, her sister's maid of honor, appeared in pale green crepe Elizabeth. The bridesmaids, Virginia Gilman, Harriet Hubbard, Katherine D. Lown, all of Yonkers; Mary Cheston Morris, of Bryn Mawr; Virginia Douglas, of Greenwich; Tempe H. Blodgett of Nantucket, wore peach color frocks of crepe Elizabeth. All had horsehair braid hats, and carried garden flowers. The bride had orchids and lilies of the valley.

The best man was Karl Adams, Jr., of Boston, and the ushers were Edward M. Edwards, of Philadelphia; Fenton Fisher, of Philadelphia; George W. Constable, of Baltimore; John S. Welles, of Plainfield, N. J.; Donald B. Smith, of Milton, Mass.; Benjamin Macfarland, of Philadelphia; Robert R. Reed, Jr., brother of the bride, and George M. D. Peltz III, of Philadelphia.

In Bridal Party

The bride and bridegroom will return to Nantucket in August and in the fall will be at home in Philadelphia.

News of the engagement of a former Pittsburgh woman comes from the East. The engagement of Miss Esther McCartney Hamilton, of Pittsburgh and Greenwich to Boyce Dunlop, son of John R. Dunlop, editor and publisher of Industrial Management and Industry Illustrated, was announced at a tea yesterday given by Mrs. Leonard J. Watson, of the Milbrook section, Greenwich, Conn.

Betrothed In East

Miss Hamilton is a graduate of the Drexel College of Arts and Sciences, and had been associated in recent years with a children's organization in Greenwich.

Mr. Dunlop is a graduate of Yale, and was a member of the St. Anthony Club, at Yale, in 1915. He now lives in Greenwich.

As a surprise to many folks comes the news of the marriage of another of Longue Vue Country Club's star golfers, Eda Gregg McCoy. At a dinner last night in the club her father and mother, the Edward E. McCoys, of the Gerber Apartments, announced her marriage to Hugh Gould Nevin, son of the J. C. Nevins, of the Schenley Apartments.

Golfer Is Bride

The wedding took place at 6:30 o'clock in the Third Presbyterian Church, with the Rev. Dr. William L. McEwan officiating, in the presence of members of the two families. After a motor trip to Quebec and along the New England coast, the Nevins will be at home in Pittsburgh.

Not long ago, you'll recall, Mrs. Louise Smith MacDonald, chairman of the woman's golf committee of Longue Vue, married Joseph H. Bialas.

Sewickley Cot Club Observes 25th Anniversary With Dinner of Exquisite Appointments

The Sewickley Valley Cot Club celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary last night. To say just that and nothing more would be to miss the underlying spirit of this whole organization in which everyone is Carrie or Ollie or Charlie or Fannie to everyone else and which has woven a worthwhile pattern with work, play, service and abiding friendship as its warp and woof.

Perhaps it was this last—the friendship—that an outsider sensed most keenly at the anniversary dinner of 33 covers in the Edgewood club last. The affair was one of exquisite appointments—silvered flowers in silver bowls and vases, tiny silver baskets of nuts for place favors, silver candelabra and crystal candelabra, their prisms catching the light of the many white tapers. Then there were lovely pink roses (combined with snow on the mountain), just to give a bit of warm color.

Mrs. George Phelps Rose, founder and for 23 years president of the organization, was toastmistress and was introduced by the president, Charles Richardson, who later presented her with a handsome silver sandwich tray as a gift of appreciation from the club.

Mrs. Rose Honored

It was interesting to note that the six members who have served on the board since the inception of the club—Mrs. Rose, Mrs. James C. Chaplin, Mrs. Dewitt B. Nettleton, Mrs. Henry Hutchinson, Oliver S. Richardson and Charles Richardson, formed the receiving line.

Lowell Nicols, treasurer, gave what he called "a minute to minute history" of the club, telling how it was organized at Mrs. Rose's home after a performance of "Shenandoah" and how, seeking to put the proceeds of their annual dramatic performances to some worthy use, the members chose the Valley Hospital as the beneficiary. Twenty plays have been given and nearly $13,000 realized from them. On the maintenance of a cot at the hospital $7,000 has been spent and the isolation annex is also the gift of the club.

Relates History

After the history, Mrs. Wallis Tener, who drove down from her summer home at Chautauqua for the dinner, gave a clever prophecy and then there were witty reminiscences by several other members, including Oliver Richardson, who was vice president for 23 years, Mrs. Chaplin, Mrs. Nettleton, Philip W. Gundelfinger and Gilbert A. Hays, who even harked back to the ancestor of the Cot Club—the old Dramatic Club—which began in 1885. Wilson A. Campbell, president of the hospital board, spoke in appreciation of the club's work.

Furs for Midsummer Welcomed in Cool Paris

PARIS.—Midsummer furs never out of place in almost-too-cool Paris, were never more welcome than this season and the dressmakers and furriers are providing women with all the chic warmth they need.

Worth has a new bolero jacket to wear over one-piece frocks, made of leopard fur and with two big revers like a redingote. It's as smart and cozy as can be and can be put on and off at will, without any trouble and looks well with both afternoon and evening gowns.

Fur, in its latest midsummer expression, has been launched in the lovely pale-brown shades of ziblinsky which has a sable aspect and falls into line with the finest new sables. Evening wrap trimmings, particularly on buttercup-yellow velvet, bring out this new ziblinsky at its very best.

One of the loveliest brown satin evening gowns has a little ziblinsky cape to accompany it. Brown, by the way, is one of the favorite evening shades for this summer.

Greenwax makes a little white ermine wrap lined with white satin to wear over midsummer evening gowns. It is in cape form and longer in the back than in front.

Paquin's popular midsummer suit is in green wool with natural lynx trimming and it is more than probable that these warm suits will be much in vogue for winter wear next season. They are heavily trimmed with fur and warm interlinings. Often there is a wool skirt and fur jacket.

Fitchburg Girl Is Married to Dormont Man

Miss Helen Mossman Sawyer, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Walter Fairbanks Sawyer, of Prichard street, Fitchburg, Mass., is becoming the bride of Walter Lewis Ryman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ryman, of Belrose avenue, Dormont, at 5 o'clock this afternoon in the Christ Episcopal Church of Fitchburg.

The bride, given in marriage by her father on the thirty-fifth anniversary of her parents' wedding, is wearing ivory satin in the empire mode. The dress is fashioned with a train falling from the hipline. Her veil of tulle cascades from a cap of rose pink lace belonging to her grandmother, and she is carrying talisman roses, sweet peas and lilies of the valley.

Her maid of honor, Rachel Mossman, her cousin, has chosen embroidered pink organdie over pink taffeta, and a large pink horsehair braid hat, and is carrying larkspur and pink roses.

In Pink Organdie

The bridesmaids, Dorothea Ryman, of Pittsburgh, sister of the bridegroom; Constance Tenney, of Glenns Falls, N. Y.; Margaret Gustafson, of Fitchburg, and Mrs. Leo Query, of Cornwall-on-the-Hudson, are wearing embroidered blue organdie over pink taffeta, and small blue horsehair braid hats, and are carrying garden flowers.

Janet Ryman, of Pittsburgh, niece of the bridegroom, as flower girl, is wearing a frock of pink organdie in Kate Greenaway style with a poke bonnet, and is carrying a colonial bouquet.

Men in Party

Charles F. Ryman, of Pittsburgh, is his brother's best man, and John J. Mossman, of Fitchburg; Erwin M. Beach, of Randolph, Mass.; Lawrence Fuller and Lester Lauer, both of Pittsburgh, are the ushers. A reception at the Sawyer home is to follow.

The bride is a graduate of the Pennsylvania College for Women, and the bridegroom of the University of Pittsburgh. He is a member of the Kappa Sigma fraternity.

After September 1 Mr. and Mrs. Ryman will be at home in Dormont.

Church Wedding

Miss Ethel McPeak was the bride's only attendant, and Fred Paar was his brother's best man. William Wunderlich, of Pittsburgh; George Lammert, of Dormont, and G. O. Rambo, of Ingram, were ushers. William W. Oetting, of the Pittsburgh Musical Institute, played the wedding music.

A reception and dinner for the immediate families followed in the Paar home. After a western trip by way of the Panama Canal, Mr. and Mrs. Paar will be at home in East Main street, Carnegie.

SPORT FROCKS MUST BE NEAT AND TRIM TO STAY PLEASING

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, June 27.—The smartness of the sports frock continues to score a success with most of us. We now seem to be calling every type of general day frock a sports dress, whether it is the type best suited for the tennis court, the golf course or a day's hunting for bargains in a department store. The general effect must be neat and trim, but there must be no hint of a too-tailored or severe effect, although that will most likely return, as it always seems to, where the sports frock is concerned. The sensible is cleverly blended with the attractive and the result is a frock that is most wearable for almost every type of woman, although the real sports frock is really favored most by the younger woman. The very simplest accessories are worn with such a frock, and, to be really correct, most costume jewelry should be definitely out of the picture. Bracelets and a necklace with a jersey sports frock aren't kind to the frock or to the jewelry. Some things are best kept apart in the sartorial world.

REDFERN makes the very smart sports ensemble sketched here. It consists of a belted coat in black jersey, an overblouse of the same material and a flaring skirt of green, white and black jersey. Appliqued bands of the striped jersey indicate four pockets on the jacket.

DON'T YOU LIKE the amusing beach pajamas, also decorating this page. Jane Regny calls this model the "Whoopee Club." The material is red and green plaided silk on a white ground. The suspender effect in the back is interesting and an excellent arrangement for the real sun-bather. The pajama legs are exceedingly wide. Who wouldn't be a modern mermaid with such grand costumes to wear?

VAST MARKET SEEN FOR U. S. IN ORIENT

Business Machines Officer Says Far East Rapidly Adopting Our Methods

NEW YORK, June 27.—American business equipment, automobiles and machinery now dominate the markets in the Orient, where there is still a practically unlimited field for the expansion of American foreign trade, J. T. Wilson, vice president of the tabulating division of International Business Machines Corporation, said this week after returning from Japan, China and the Philippines where he spent eight months in studying the 12 principal markets of the Far East and in visiting his company's agencies and service representatives. He said:

"Everywhere throughout the Orient the influence of American business methods, processes and products is visible. American methods are being closely followed there and our products, especially all types of machines and mechanical appliances, are gradually being adopted. The Far Eastern field is still vast for our mechanical products, and it affords a favorable outlet for many American non-mechanical products in daily use here."

Commenting on conditions in individual countries in the Orient, Mr. Wilson observed that Japan is beginning to experience an improvement in business. The Japanese, he reported, are gradually securing the Chinese market for a number of products and are progressing in many industries, chiefly by adopting American business methods. The United States is getting most of the foreign trade of the Philippines, where American business appliances and agricultural equipment are extensively used, he said.

China needs to be stabilized politically and to have its educational standards raised to the level of these two other peoples before its markets can be vigorously developed by foreign companies, Mr. Wilson concluded, but it affords the greatest potential market in the Far East.

RELIEF FAILURE TO WORKERS ON FARMS

Federal Board Served as Aircushion to Lighten Agricultural Depression

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, June 27.—In terms of pragmatic results to those on the soil, American programs for farm relief have been a failure. The money income of the farmer has fallen 40 per cent since 1929. In spite of the plight of the farmer, the Federal Farm Board has nevertheless served to aircushion the agricultural depression by making liquidation slower and more orderly, and thus enabled the more alert bankers and merchants to save their skins.

Mr. Rukeyser

Despite the shrunken purchasing power of the farmer, the man on the soil has, of course, been enabled to take his punishment much more gracefully than unemployed industrial workers in the city.

INCOMES SUFFER

The new president of the Corn Products Refining Company, George M. Moffett, in discussing these trends with me from a business viewpoint, drew on private sources of information concerning crops which are three months prompter than ordinary published statistics. Mr. Moffett, who recently succeeded the late E. T. Bedford as president of Corn Products Refining Company, told me:

"It can be stated, and quite legitimately, that incomes have been rudely handled in all of the industrial centers; that the farmer is not the only person having troubles. There are some five or six million people out of work and a vast majority of them have little, if any, income. They are excluded from the luxury market and every purchase of essentials has been reduced to a minimum.

"To make comparison between the state of the unemployed of the urban centers and the farmer who has his income cut almost in half, is one way of bringing to light the brighter side of the farm picture. The farmer can, unless drought or floods have laid waste his crops, get food. And he has a roof over his head. The temporary breakdown of our economic organization does not leave him either starving or homeless. Although deflation and what are known in legal terminology as "acts of God" may cause him to be dispossessed of his property if the situation become serious enough. He is, however, much less susceptible to the hardships wrought by the fluctuations of business."

INDUSTRIES HIT

"The lowering of farm purchasing power cannot help but have far reaching effects. Products of the industrial centers, particularly luxuries, cannot be bought. Only essentials can figure until purchasing power is restored. Thus the industrial centers are affected seriously right now by the plight of the farmer.

"Two years ago the cash income derived from agriculture was over nine billion dollars, representing 11 per cent of the total national income. This year the farmers' income will be less than six billion, provided the situation in agriculture becomes no worse than it was in the first five months of the year. That means a reduction in income of perhaps 40 per cent from what it was in 1929.'"

The importance of the recent rally in commodity prices can be appreciated in light of the dire occurrences of the first five months of the year.

Machines Cutting Cost Of Farm Output

CHICAGO, June 27.—(AP.)—The industry that mechanized agriculture has begun a nation-wide census of farm production costs in a campaign to widen its market.

This research represents the latest experiment of the $500,000,000 farm equipment manufacturing industry to ascertain how much the operating costs of family-sized farms can be reduced by machinery.

Already returns from "better than average" farmers in 24 states reveal that cost-cutting measures have gone far to increase possibilities for profits on major crops despite the current slump in market prices.

Results of the first six months of the investigation likewise have convinced the National Association of Farm Equipment Manufacturers, which is conducting the survey, that possibilities to reducing production costs are relatively as great on family-sized farms as on tracts where big scale farming is practiced.

Data from Farmers

THE INDUSTRY is dealing directly with the farmer in its research. Standard forms for calculating crops costs are used, with the land charge item omitted to gain a basis of more accurate comparison. All other costs of production and operation—power, labor, machinery, seed, fertilizer, miscellaneous supplies and overhead—are included.

Computations covering major crops throughout the country show that many farmers have reduced per acre costs to less than half the average cost for farms with similar yields. In many instances their costs were sufficiently low last year to allow profits despite the drought and unfavorable markets.

In the corn belt, for instance, one Minnesota farm reported a 90-acre crop yielding 45 bushels an acre at a growing and harvesting cost of $4.46 per acre. This contrasts with $13.90, the government figure for the average cost on farms of similar yields.

To Continue Research

ONE KANSAN'S record showed he produced 140 acres of wheat, with 22 bushels to the acre, at a per acre cost of $5.58, or 25 cents a bushel. That per acre cost was $6.88 less than the national average for similar yields.

By using labor-saving devices a Mississippi cotton grower found it possible to produce 50 bales on an 80-acre plot at a cost of $15.89 per acre. For farms of comparable yields the average cost per acre is $33.43.

These are typical figures, and do not represent the lowest production costs recorded. For other principal crops there were similar reports.

The association's research on cost-cutting is to be continued indefinitely, with a view of compiling statistics that will disclose how the efficiency of farm operations is increasing, year by year.

RETAIL SALES RETARDED BY WEATHER

Orders for Fall Delivery Comparatively Small; Collections Improved

Rainy weather has had a tendency to slow up sales at retail and jobbers of drygoods and wearing apparel report buying light and mostly on a hand-to-mouth basis, according to R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review.

Orders for fall delivery have thus far been comparatively small. With rainfall above normal in volume, crop conditions in this section are reported better than usual, and most lines of fruit are expected to produce large crops.

OIL OUTPUT UP

Industrial operations have fallen off to some extent, and steel mills are estimated to be operating at little more than 35 per cent. Production of window glass is at a slightly higher rate, but demand continues slow. Plate glass production is practically unchanged, and buying is at a somewhat lower rate.

A slight increase is noted in the production of crude oil, with prices locally showing little change. The strike in the bituminous coal fields continues to reduce production somewhat, output being estimated at about 20 per cent lower than a year ago. Demand continues rather quiet, with prices showing little change.

KNIGHTS LIFE HOLDS MEET

Superintendents of the Knights Life Insurance Company of America met in convention this month in the auditorium of the company's new home office building, Ridge and Galveston avenues, North Side. Superintendents from Pittsburgh's three districts inspected the new headquarters.

Delegates attended a baseball game at Forbes Field, saw the city by automobile and were entertained with a chicken and waffle dinner.

The Knights 15 districts were divided into two teams, with Joseph H. Reiman, president, as general of one team, and P. Joseph Hess, vice president and secretary, general of the other for an industrial drive, the first to be held since the dedication of the new home office.

MANY OPINIONS SENT TO I. C. C.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—(AP.)—The Interstate Commerce Commission is hearing what the country thinks of the proposed increase in railroad freight rates. Some of it opposes the raise in no uncertain terms; some favor it as definitely in the belief that it will help restore prosperity. Communications have come from every section of the country. One was from Lucerne, Switzerland.

The file in the case, which is only nine days old, already has filled one volume and soon will overflow into another. Yet, commission officials say, the file has not yet shown indications of approaching that of 1914, when the railroads asked their first wartime increase.

The present crop of communications consists of letters, post cards and telegrams. Farmers, bankers, investors, business men, statesmen, laborers, business organizations, state officials, "cranks" and profound students of economics are among the writers.

The solutions suggested to avoid rate increases run the gamut from wage cuts for railroad employes, and from switching of taxes from railroads to motor trucks and buses, to drastic limitation of automobile speeds on highways.

The greatest opposition is indicated by fruit growers and coal men, while investors in railroad stocks, securities dealers and a number of business men urge increases.

PLANS CLASSES ON CAMPUS

If the hot weather continues, it is probable that Duquesne University summer classes will be held under the trees on the campus. Last year this innovation proved very popular with the 738 students and the faculty members during the dry, hot months when even well ventilated classrooms became uncomfortable.

Sections of bleachers are set up on the athletic field with desks for instructors. Located high on the Bluff, overlooking Pittsburgh's skyscrapers, Duquesne's campus gets whatever breezes drift up from the river valley.

Summer classes open Monday morning and continue until August 8. The first lecture is scheduled for 8:15 a. m. The majority of classes begin at 9 a. m. Several evening classes are scheduled in the schools of finance, accounts and commerce.

Summer courses are offered by six schools of the university. Members of the regular faculty will conduct classes in the colleges of arts and science and in the schools of education, drama, music, accounts, finance and commerce. The ninth session will conclude in August.

GLASS MAKERS OPTIMISTIC

Seasonal influences are playing an important part in keeping down both production and distribution of flat glass, according to American Glass Review.

The turn of the year finds automobile manufacturers taking less plate glass than some weeks ago, mirror manufacturers waiting for orders, distributors of plate and window glass taking semi-annual inventories and the usual decline in consumption due to warm weather.

In spite of the unfavorable factors, the feeling among producers and distributors is optimistic and a real turn upward is expected to start about August 15. While it is not anticipated that automobile manufacturers will call for plate glass as they did during the Spring, there will be demand for plate glass from the mirror makers and distributors. In the meantime, plate glass producers are slowing down somewhat on production. Once stocks are in good shape, factories will hold output in step with demand.

Seiberling Visits Local Distributor

While in Pittsburgh last Thursday, C. W. Seiberling, vice president and treasurer of the Seiberling Rubber Company, expressed satisfaction with the sales record of his firm in the Pittsburgh district.

Seiberling announced that the Seiberling factories near Akron are running at capacity. Before returning to his home, the executive inspected the Penn Tire Company, local distributors of Seiberling products.

Continental Can Opens New Plant

NEW YORK, June 27.—Continental Can Company has started operation of its new plant at Camden, N. J., supplying the can requirements of the Campbell Soup Company at that point. Previously, cans were shipped there from one of the Continental factories in Baltimore.

The new six-story plant has storage capacity for 15,000,000 cans. Starting with the flat sheets of tin-plate in the Continental plant, the operation is continuous from the time the packages are opened until the finished cans, packed and labeled, leave the Campbell kitchens on conveyors to the outgoing freight platform.

ALLEGHENY COUNTY
"Public Improvements Promote Progress"

The improvement of Ingomar Road, in McCandless Township, represented new highway construction and increased the mileage of county paved roads 1.51 miles. It provides a new paved connection from the west to the border line of North Park, beginning at the western terminus, which is Perry Highway. It creates also another cross-country stretch of highway, making available a connecting link between highways radiating from Pittsburgh.

The new pavement is of reinforced concrete, 9 inches thick at the edges and 7 inches at the center. The pavement is 20 feet wide and 1.51 miles long.

This contract was awarded to the Allegheny Contracting Company on May 27, 1930. It was completed during September, 1930, the final construction cost being $89,135.05. The source of county funds was the 1928 People's Bond Issue.

Know Your City!

Few cities have paid so much attention to instruction in manual training and the industrial arts as has Pittsburgh, through the Carnegie Institute of Technology and similar institutions. In these classes, students receive training in every branch of industry and in all of the building trades, being instructed in well-regulated courses leading to proficiency. The instruction does not follow the regular text-book method, for the practical application of the knowledge is characteristic of these courses, which distinguishes institutions in Pittsburgh in this branch of learning. Students attend these classes from all over the Pittsburgh District. Pittsburgh thus enjoys an enviable position among other cities of the country, in respect to its facilities for scientific and technical instruction in engineering and business administration, as well as regular university training.

STOCK MARKET LOSES EARLY HEAVINESS

Declines Quickly Made Up or Cut and Gains Appear in Quiet Trading

NEW YORK, June 27.—(AP.)—The stock market stiffened after an opening sag today.

Week-end profit taking and some disappointment over what seemed to be a temporary deadlock in the Franco-American debt negotiation, caused several recessions of 1 to 2 points in the first few minutes, but they were quickly reduced or recovered, and gains soon appeared here and there. Trading was quiet.

Wall street was still optimistic over the outcome of the debt negotiations. Firmness of the Berlin market was taken as a decidedly good sign. It was pointed out that, after all, there had been some apprehension lest the French cabinet fail to gain the support of the Chamber of Deputies on its conditional approval of the debt plan.

Early losses of a point or so in U. S. Steel and American Can were soon about canceled, while Case, International Shoe, Johns Manville and Westinghouse showed gains of about a point. Missouri Pacific gained 2 points, and New York Central fully recovered a loss of nearly 2 points.

During the first few minutes, losses of a point or two appeared in American Telephone, American and Foreign Power, Allied Chemical, Eastman, Baltimore and Ohio and Chesapeake and Ohio.

Foreign exchanges opened about steady. The German mark was unchanged and at $4.86 1-2, sterling cables were off only 1-32.

VACUUM TERMS CHANGED

NEW YORK, June 27.—The basis for merging Vacuum Oil Company and Standard Oil Company of New York, has been changed so that Vacuum stockholders will receive two and one-half shares of capital stock of the merged companies for each share of their present stock, and the stockholders of Standard Oil of New York will receive new certificates for their present shares on a share-for-share basis.

It has also been decided that the name of the merged company will be Socony Vaccum Corporation instead of General Petroleum Corporation as originally planned.

The New York Produce Exchange securities market has admitted to dealings the Socony Vacuum Corporation new common stock, no par "when issued."

Receiver Named for 'Katy' Oil Property

TULSA, June 27.—Oklahoma court has issued an order for a temporary receivership of the oil properties in the Oklahoma City field owned by Missouri, Kansas and Texas and St. Louis and San Francisco railroads.

The action, brought at the instigation of Gov. Murray, alleges violation of section 22 of the state constitution forbidding public service corporations from holding land for a period longer than seven years unless necessary to conduct their business. Similar action against others is planned.

Market Nearing Point Where Good Business News Will Help

Seldom in its long history has the speculative market staged such a swift recovery in so short a space of time as on the present occasion. Perhaps it is not generally realized, but at the top levels reached on Thursday, the stock market had recovered in almost exactly three weeks 53 per cent of the ground lost on the long decline from the year's high of February 24 to the recent June 2 minimum. Based on the standard statistics index stocks dropped 47.4 points from the peak of 144.3 to the low of 96.9, over a period of more than three months. At Thursday's approximate high of 122 in the index, however, the market showed a recovery of 25.1 points or roughly 53 per cent of the loss on the preceding down swing. And by far the major portion of the recovery, 70 per cent of it to be exact, had been scored since the opening on last Saturday. The market may therefore be approaching a point at which it will need the sustaining influence of something in the way of evidence of actual change for the better in the business picture.

The automobile group yesterday came in for considerable realizing in the afternoon, and though selling was generally fell taken, motor shares fell back from the best levels. Profit taking in that quarter was influenced in a measure by the appearance of new car registration figures, the return covering 40 states, which on the whole did not prove particularly encouraging. It was shown that during the first five months this year, new passenger car registrations in such territory had totaled 975,492 units, or the equivalent of only approximately 70 per cent of the total of 1,392,658 registrations reported for the same territory in the corresponding period last year.

Provided conditions are not subject to any material change, indications are that there will be considerable new financing done over the next few weeks. Several large state issues, including a piece of New York financing and also an issue of New Jersey bonds, are known to be waiting the proper setting, and there is talk of a sizeable issue for the State of Mississippi. In addition, there are several substantial public utility loans under negotiation, which in all probability will be offered in that interval. Perhaps the current slack in the municipal field can be traced to the slight softening that has developed of late in that particular part of the market.

Months ago, when there was so much talk of an advance in cigaret prices, the most conservative interests predicted that a change would be made around the middle of the year. They proved to be correct in their views. Lately little was heard of a price advance, so that the action taken two days ago was quite a surprise and has attracted increased interest to the shares of the leading cigaret companies. Any technical reaction in this group is likely to encounter good scale buying by those who missed the initial advance.

Copper has reflected more influence from the plan for a debt moratorium than any other branch of the raw material markets. There should be a continued good demand for the red metal from abroad, because of the small surpluses in many countries. In the past, there have been many periods when foreign buying of copper started a good general demand.

The Superheater Company is obtaining its share of available business, but the total is very slim. Officials of the company state that earnings are running in the black and should show a balance available for the common stock in the first half year, although materially below the $2.47 a share reported for the first six months of 1930. Public utility companies are proceeding with their programs as scheduled. This is about the only division of Superheater's business which is at all active. The railroads have not been buying locomotives, but should there be a resumption of contracts eventually as a result of the freight rate increase which seems likely to be granted, the influence would be shown in the earnings of the Superheater Company.

Plymouth May Set Production Record

DETROIT, June 27.—Although the new Plymouth has not been announced to the public, the company will go into July with from 3,000 to 5,000 orders held over from June. New cars are leaving the plant at the rate of over 800 per day. Production is being increased as rapidly as possible, and it is likely that more than 11,000 new Plymouths will be built in June.

It is probable the July schedule will be worked up to at least 15,000 cars for United States shipment alone. Added to this is the possibility that over 2,000 cars will be built for Canadian and export shipment. If a total of more than 17,000 cars are built in July, all Plymouth records will be broken.

LOEW'S PROFIT MAKES GOOD SHOWING

Earns $7 a Share for 40 Weeks Against $7.64 for Same Period Last Year

NEW YORK, June 27.—Loew's, Inc., will report a net profit equal, after subsidiary preferred dividends, to approximately $5.75 a share on 1,413,574 common shares for the 40 weeks ended about June 6, and for the fiscal year ending August 31 next, probably will show close to $7 a share. These results will compare with a net profit of $11,781,924 or approximately $7.64 a share on 1,414,351 shares in the first 40 weeks of 1930, and $14,600,332 or $9.90 a share for the 1930 fiscal year.

In the 28 weeks ended March 13, 1931, corresponding roughly to the first half of the fiscal year, Loew's reported net of $6,879,960 or approximately $4.50 a share on the common after subsidiary preferred dividends, against $8,243,584, or $5.46 a share on the present amount of stock a year ago.

SAME EXTRA LIKELY

In view of the continued stability of earning power, it is probable that the usual $1 extra dividend on the common will be declared in the fall, making total payments $4 for the year. The management has concentrated its efforts in the last few years toward making the company as depression proof as possible, and has not accumulated any large funded debt, nor has it unduly increased the common capitalization. It therefore feels justified in continuing the usual return to stockholders.

METRO EARNINGS OFF

Loew's theaters in Greater New York have done about as well this year as last, and the reduction in boxoffice income has been mainly in out-of-town theaters.

There are about 200 theaters in the Loew circuit, but these provide a comparatively small portion of the film income received by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, the producing subsidiary. Thus, the earnings of Metro in the 28 weeks ended March 13 before taxes were $4,017,544 against $6,076,322 in the corresponding 1930 period. This would indicate that all of the decline in income was in the film producing division, the reduction being due to smaller rentals received from theaters all over the country not in the Loew chain.

Imports of Copper Declined in May

Imports of copper in unmanufactured form by the United States amounted to 16,189 metric tons in May, against 16,326 in April and 16,222 in March, according to the American Bureau of Metal Statistics. Exports of refined copper from United States in May were 15,709 tons, against 16,919 in April and 24,902 in March.

STEEL TRADE SENTIMENT IMPROVED

Proposed Debt Holiday Brightens Prospects; Sharp Rise Expected

By B. E. V. LUTY

Sentiment in the steel trade has been greatly improved by the debt moratorium proposal as is the case with other lines of business. Circumstances in the steel market are such that overnight price advances could not be expected but tonnage prospects are regarded as distinctly improved. Steel production is engaged in the usual and practically inevitable seasonal decline, but the extent of the decline may be mitigated and the seasonal rise due after next month should be accentuated.

Steel ingot production in the past week has been at about 37 per cent, there being three points drop in three weeks. July should, as usual, be the low month and may average around 35 per cent, which would place it just a shade below December. Regularly the autumn peak in production has run below the spring peak. An increase of one-half over the rate assumed for July would make a peak just under the 54.2 per cent rate officially reported for last March, but already there are some predictions that a higher rate will be struck, even above 60 per cent, though the half year's average rate would, of course, be much less.

HIGHER COST SEEN

It is estimated that the 15 per cent general freight rate advance asked by the railroads would add an average of $1 to the cost of making a ton of finished steel, but the steel trade as a whole is in favor of the advance, as calculated to improve general conditions rather than as likely to bring about any large increase in the amount of railroad steel buying.

As having a bearing on prospective earning reports, total steel ingot production in the quarter may be estimated at approximately 8 per cent under the 8,000,000 tons produced in the first quarter. Unit costs have presumably been a shade higher, and average prices realized on shipments of sheets, strips and wire products have been somewhat lower. For the second half of the year some companies will benefit by rigid economies now being put into effect.

CANNERS PLAN MERGER

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Trade advices to the Commerce Department report plans are now under way for the amalgamation of the sugar beet and canning industries of the United Kingdom so that fuller and more efficient use may be made of the power units of the best factories.

For nine months of the year the power units of the beet factories are wasted when beets are not being treated. The canning industry, whose busy season falls at a different time, now must construct new sources of power at considerable expense. Prolonged investigations have been made on the continent, and it is contended that all will benefit by building new canneries beside the beet factories, both sharing a common power source. A further saving would result from the fact that the sugar syrup used in fruit canning would be manufactured beside the cannery.

Farm Board Wheat Policy Unchanged

WASHINGTON, June 27.—(AP.)—Chairman Stone, of the Farm Board, talked over the wheat situation with President Hoover yesterday and its policy on stabilization wheat sales still holds.

While the chairman, who had just returned from the West, and the White House were reticent on details, it was learned the board dispatched many replies to demands for a definite pledge that more than 200,000,000 bushels of wheat would be held from domestic markets.

They all were the same: "Stabilization supplies will be handled in such a way as to impose the minimum burden on domestic and world prices."

Woman Injured In Street Fall

Tripping on a street car rail in Tioga street at Brighton avenue, Mrs. Franz McShannon, 72, of 304 Clay avenue, Jeannette, suffered bruises to both knees and lacerations of the nose and forehead. She was treated at the office of Dr. Homer E. Halferty in the East End Savings and Trust Building. According to East End police, the street car rail was raised more than two inches above the street.

156 at Allegheny High Get Diplomas

Diplomas were given to 156 at the fifty-second annual commencement exercises of the Allegheny High School last night in Carnegie Music Hall, Oakland. The class honor students were Albert Henry Christman, Ruth Mathilda Heintz, Ellen Rose Mueller and Ruth Frieda Reinard. The speakers were Christman, Miss Mueller, Miss Reinard and Mary Alice Graham.

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

ACCORDING TO AN ITEM in the papers, elementary school authorities are planning to teach English to pupils by means of a new and novel method. Comic cartoons, wise cracks and snappy jokes will be the experiment which they will try next term. The children will be both amused and educated at the same time. . . .

* * *

There's a great idea in that. Let's see how it would work out. School is now in session. The pupils, of course, are youngsters. The teacher doesn't know very much, but he's been hired because he once worked on a Chaplin picture as an extra. He's terribly funny, if you're not too particular.

Teacher jigs into the room, turns a complete somersault and lands in a chair as the children applaud politely.

Teacher—Good morning, boys and girls. Stop me if you've heard this one. Once upon a time there was an elephant—

Pupils in unison—Stop! We've all heard it. Get some new stuff.

Teacher—All right. Johnny Jones, stand up. Who was that lady I seen you with last night?

Jones—That was no lady, teacher. That was a motion picture star.

Teacher—Very good. Jones. Susie Smith, what do you want?

Susie—I'm sorry, teacher. I left my Joe Miller's joke book home.

Teacher—That's terrible. How are we going to do any work if you children are going to forget your books. Go right home and get it.

Susie Smith rises. As she passes the teacher, he raises his foot and kicks her swiftly. Both the children and the teacher laugh as Susie disappears through the door. . . .

Teacher—We will now take up some ancient history. Gus Wiffle, stand up. What is ancient history?

Wiffle—Bicycles and corsets.

Teacher — Correct. Minnie Gootch, you stand up. Here's a question for you. Who was Helen of Troy?

Minnie—A six-reeler released by Metro-Goldwyn.

Teacher—Very good, Minnie. Here's another. What famous slogan, first uttered by a Greek general, has echoed down through the ages?

Minnie—"Apple, strumbarry an' cocoanut pie."

Teacher—Well, well, you children are certainly doing famously. Who invented the cotton gin?

Pupils, in unison—Volstead!

Teacher—We will now have our arithmetic lesson. Willie Doakes, arise. If A travels 10 miles per hour and buys a cow for $6, and along comes B at 12 miles per hour and offers him $14 for the cow, what is A's name?

Willie—His name is Mud.

Teacher—Correct. Tommy Whosis, you get up. If a herring and a half costs a cent and a half and two laborers are digging a ditch at the rate of 30 inches every six days, how long will it take the laborers to finish the ditch?

Whosis—Did the two laborers ever work on the new subway in New York.

Teaches—Yes.

Whosis—Then they'll never finish the ditch.

Teacher—Right you are. You're a pretty bright boy. I think I'll ask you another question. If a man talks at the rate of five words a second and doesn't pause for breath for two weeks, where will he wind up?

Whosis—In the senate—

Teacher—We will now turn to some current events. Margie Mildew, arise. What is art?

Margie—Art who?

Teacher—Don't be silly. Never mind the question. Here's another: What famous man saw more beauty in the ocean than any other man?

Margie—Mack Sennett.

Teacher—Correct. I'm going to test your memory. What did Jiggs, in the "Bringing Up Father" comic strip, do two weeks ago last Friday?

Margie—I don't remember.

Teacher—WHAT! You don't remember what Jiggs did on that day? You ought to be ashamed of yourself. Bring your mother to school tomorrow. Bring your father, too. Bring your whole family. I'm going to make an example of you.

Margie—Boo hoo!

Teacher—Stop your crying. I'll give you one more chance. Where was Barney Google three weeks ago last Wednesday?

Margie—I don't know. I never read Barney Google.

Teacher, falling into his chair in a faint—You never read Barney Google! Get out of here, young lady. YOU'RE EXPELLED!

CHURCH ARGUES BIRTH TOPIC

SEATTLE, June 27.—(AP.)—Birth control was debated at the convention here yesterday of the merged Congregational and Christian churches, with resolutions introduced by Iowa and New York city groups.

Repeal of laws which prevent physicians from giving birth control information to married couples was urged by the Iowa Congregational conference. A birth control referendum of church members married at least five years and parents of at least one child was recommended by the New York City Congregational Association.

The union of the Congregational and Christian denominations struck a snag in selection of a name for the united body. The Christian group was said by delegates to favor the name "Congregational Christian" while others said the name "United Church of Christ" had approval of many in both groups.

Arrested in Stabbing Of Brother-in-law

Alleged to have been stabbed by his brother-in-law, Water Hart, 32, Negro of Protectory place, Mack Green, 35, Negro, of 1812 Rowley street, was in the Passavant Hospital today in serious condition. Hart, arrested later, told police that Green was choking Mrs. Green and when Hart attempted to separate them a fight ensued in which Green was cut.

Car Jumps Track, Strikes Automobile

A street car jumped the track last night at Gist street and Fifth avenue and collided with a parked automobile owned by John D. Patton, of 145 Harris avenue, according to the Oakland police. The machine was unoccupied. No one was injured, police said.

DRYS SEIZE TWO CARS AND RUM

Two motorists escaped and their automobiles, containing quantities of liquor, were confiscated by prohibition agents after pursuits last night and early today.

One driver, who was followed from the Hill district, wrecked his machine in Baldwin street, Hays, and fled. The car was driven against a concrete pole, the driver leaping a moment before the crash. Fifty-five gallons of moonshine was found in the machine.

A second motorist, whose car was halted in Trent street by federal agents, leaped to the street and fled. The machine contained 35 gallons of moonshine.

77 PINTS LIQUOR FORFEITED

Seventy-seven pints of whisky was ordered forfeited to the government in Federal Court yesterday when John Crnkovic, of East Ohio street, a former wholesale beverage dealer, offered no objections.

Some months ago prohibition agents delivered the whisky to his home but he refused to accept it and it was returned to a government warehouse. Subsequently Crnkovic failed to answer a rule of the court to show cause why it should not be condemned and forfeited to the government.

The liquor was part of a seizure made at his home April 5, 1930, by prohibition agents. Later the court ruled the seizure illegal and it was returned, with the exception of the 77 pints. A few minutes later a constable and state policemen seized the liquor and arrested Crnkovic, under the Snyder act. Later the agents tried to return the 77 pints but he refused to accept it.

Congregation Hears Mission Worker

Miss Sylvia Siegfried, who served three terms in missionary work in the Philippine Islands, and has just received her master's degree at Columbia University, addressed the congregation of the Knoxville Christian Church last night.

She comes from Croton, O., and will return to the Philippines in July.

Firemen Quell Blaze In Vacant House

Damage estimated at $600 was caused by a fire in a vacant three-story dwelling at 170 Arlington avenue, last night, according to a report. Firemen said that for a time the blaze threatened to spread to adjoining houses, but it was brought under control and confined to the one dwelling.

HOWARD IRISH

IRISH NAMED BANK HEAD

Howard Irish, vice president of the Commonwealth Trust Company, yesterday was elected president of that institution, succeeding George D. Edwards, who has resigned.

Mr. Edwards, one of the best known figures in local financial circles, has not been well, and has spent the greater part of this year in the West in the hope of building up his health and again taking up his active duties. However, on the advice of his physician, he has concluded to resign from the presidency, but will continue as a director of the Commonwealth Trust Company.

Mr. Irish has been associated with the Commonwealth Trust Company since its organization, having long served as a director and vice president of the institution, and as president of its subsidiary, the Commonwealth Real Estate Company. He is a member of the Duquesne, University and Oakmont Clubs.

CHARGES POLICE BEAT HIM AGAIN

Patrolmen Albert Kozar and Frank Anderson, of the Homestead police department, were scheduled for hearings today before Justice of the Peace L. Wicks on charges brought by John Gaydes, of 532 City Farm lane, that the officers beat him. Gaydes charges this is the second time within three months that he has been beaten by Homestead policemen.

Police say Gaydes was arrested with two companions, Charles Petroski, 33, and Frank Lokowich, 18, of Heidelberg, when they were found loitering near the scene of a holdup. Gaydes, they said, resisted arrest, and struck Officer Kozar as he was being taken to the police station.

In the previous case Gaydes charged he was taken from his home without a warrant and beaten in the police station. Fire Chief Herman Samuels, Police Capt. John Jenkins and Patrolmen Kozar, George Palmer and James Somyck are under $1,000 bail each, awaiting trial on Gaydes' charges.

Dr. Ewers to Spend Two Months Abroad

For the second time in two years, the Rev. Dr. John Ray Ewers, pastor of the East End Christian Church, will visit Europe this summer to study economic and social problems. He has been granted a two-month vacation by the official board of the church.

He will be a member of the Sherwood Eddy Seminar which sails Wednesday on the steamship George Washington to visit London, Paris and cities of Italy and Hungary. Dr. Ewers will discuss the problems studied at open forum services in his church.

Doctor Offers $200 Reward for Robber

A $200 reward for the apprehension of the Negro woman who entered his residence last Wednesday and stole jewelry and other articles valued at $2,000 has been offered by Dr. C. E. Shultz, Castle Shannon physician.

Many of the valuables taken were gifts to the doctor and Mrs. Schultz, he said, and could not be replaced. Dr. Shultz found the Negro woman in his home when he returned from a call, but accepted her story that she had wandered into the wrong house and permitted her to escape.

Automobile Damaged When Garage Burns

A small frame garage, in the rear of 2316 Josephine street, was virtually destroyed and an automobile badly damaged by fire early today, according to a report at the South Side Police Station. The garage is owned by Michael Sleck, of 2316 Josephine street. Damage amounted to $400, the report said.

BLUE RHAPSODY

WE NOW PRESENT

By HOWARD L. BROWNING, JR.

The Boston Pop concert, over KDKA at 8:30, seems to be about the best period on the air tonight. Pop for popular, you're told. Jesus Maria Sanroma, Porto Rican musician and former official pianist for the Boston Symphony Orchestra, isn't among the least of the talent that'll be heard. He'll play Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue," which you like so much.

Of course, if you're not an intellectual and want something down to the level of this column, tune in Gus Van, great artist on WCAE at 9:30 p. m. Van used to be half of Van and Schenck. And there's other talent on the same level, you low brows.

You've liked the KQV players so far, so you might as well listen to them at 6:45 when they go into aerial drama. They'll tie you in loops and tailspins.

Tony Cabooch, whom WJAS's press agent insists is a one-man show, will continue the low level of entertainment at 10:45 when he announces his candidacy for the presidency. Between us, don't listen to him unless you side always with the underdog—he hasn't a chance unless he proposes a moratorium on all personal debts.

KDKA carries, at 4:30 p. m., shortly before WJAS's broadcast of the Ryder Cup matches in Columbus, O., a National Education Association program that you mothers and fathers should heed. Talks on schools and school children with their relation to your lives, will be heard.

Hank Simmons' Show Boat on WJAS carries a Russian slave story that sounds pretty cheap and melodramatic. If you like to hear the melodramas of the Gay Nineties' burlesque — and this column thinks that's next best to roasting them over a slow fire—you'll laugh pleasantly at this program.

Greensburg Radio Application Denied

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Sustaining the recommendation of Examiner Walker, the Federal Radio Commission has denied the application of John L. Baer, doing business as the Westmoreland Advertising Company, for authority to erect a new 1,000-watt broadcasting station in Greensburg.

The commission examiner held that the area was already adequately served by Pittsburgh and other stations. The decision is final unless the applicant appeals to the courts.

THE LOUDSPEAKER

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, June 27.—The imperishability of "The Blue Danube," "Kiss Me Again," Stephen Foster's songs. The exciting sweep of violins in the "Ride of the Valkyries," the fondness of baritones for "On the Road to Mandalay," the gaiety in Percy Grainger's fingers, the unwritten law of the radio sahibs that save for an SOS only the voice of the President can interrupt a commercial program.

No song remains long outside the crooners' megaphones. Yet it seems they might leave "Who'll Buy My Violets" alone . . . If we can't have the kaiser why can't we have his son and heir? And why can't we have Von Hindenburg talking on some of the major phases of the war?

Song hits are not as numerous now that most of the balladeers in Hollywood have been given one-way to New York. Even "Singin' in the Rain" is being revived. Don't say you've forgotten "Singin' in the Rain."

If public debates are ever arranged for the purpose of establishing the reasons for Tin Pan Alley's undisputed sway of the microphones we intend to enter the lists with a brief for this song. For months its insidious notes assailed the emotions with a force that swept interest in the stock market, the bridge table, even the dear old cocktail shaker into the limbo of the unimportant.

The paternal voice of Walter Damrosch now echoes out of the Hollywood hills. A striking aspect of radio is that its gods hold a mastery over their audience only so long as they are regularly heard. Even two-week vacations are harmful to microphone vogue.

From small towns hail the majority of radio entertainers. Here, parishioners, is a partial list. B. A. Rolfe, Brasher Falls, N. Y.; Willard Robison, Shelbina, Mo.; Roxy, Stillwater, Minn.; Paul Small, Adair, Ia.; Glenn (Gene and Glenn) Rowell, Pontiac, Ill.; Obed Pickard, Beardstown, Tenn.; Curt Peterson, Albert Lea, Minn.; Howard Barlow, Plain City, O.; Peter Dixon, Fort Erie, Ont.; Don Carney, St. Joseph, Mich.; Jesse Crawford, Woodland, Cal.; James Melton, Moultrie, Ga.; Mary McCoy, Great Bend, Kan.; Louis Dean, Valley Head, Ala.; Paul Tremaine, a ranch in Colorado; Neel Enslen, Delphos, O.; Norman Brokenshire, Murcheson, Ontario; Leonard Joy, Claremont, N. H.; Ted Husing, Deming, N. M.; Robert Ripley, Santa Rosa, Cal.; Ben Alley, a farm in West Virginia; Harvey Hayes, Greencastle, Ind.

Things we never tire of: Brahms' Fifth Hungarian Dance, Tschaikowsky's symphonies, Jerome Kern's "Show Boat" tunes, Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Scheherazade," Chaminade's "Autumn," Sousa's "Stars and Stripes," "Washington Post" and "El Capitan," the scores of Victor Herbert's "Eileen" and "Babes in Toyland," the old cotton fields jig, "Jubilo," the Negro spiritual, "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot," the Largo of the "New World Symphony," MacDowell's "Woodland Sketches," any of the music of "Tristan and Isolde," the "Liebestraum" of Lizst and Nevin's "A Day in Venice."

The dance band battalion has discovered most of these numbers, is offering them nightly to the cretonned sofas as well as to those wayfarers who wander to the roof gardens to stare at the songwriters' moon. Moreover, most of the tunes are played with a smoothness that would not turn even Lizst too violently in his grave.

MISS CINEMA OF 1931 -:- Venus de Milo Inspires Modern Movie Queen -:- IN THE THEATERS -:- Critics See the Shows and Talk About Them

Willy Pogany Latest Fellow To Pick Hollywood's Ideal Beauty

By HARRISON CARROLL

Copyright, 1931, by Premier Syndicate.

HOLLYWOOD, June 27.

All artists who come out here make some comment about Hollywood beauties—and Willy Pogany is no exception.

Less bold than some, the painter-sculptor-architect mentions no names. He is content with picking the ideal Hollywood type.

Miss Cinema of 1931, says Pogany, follows this description:

She is a bleached blonde.

She has blue eyes.

She is 5 feet 3 inches tall, without heels.

She weighs 112 pounds (probably without meals).

Eddie Cantor

The artist arrives at these statistics from a study of the 50 girls selected for Eddie Cantor's "Palmy Days." Mr. Pogany, incidentally, made the sketches for the sets of this production. The larger task of selecting the ideal Hollywood beauty, he did in his spare time. It all falls under the head of art, anyway.

If we can believe the distinguished expert, this year's model beauty is leaning toward the proportions of Venus de Milo. She has a wider waist, less noticeable hips, a straighter back and broader shoulders than the girls Mr. Pogany observed when he was in Hollywood four years ago for Samuel Goldwyn.

Athletics, he suggests, may be responsible. But that's another story.

FAIR WARNING

A candidate for the annual prize for honest advertising is the Hollywood cleaner who has on his window card:

"Women's Silk Dresses Cleaned and Finished, $1.25."

LATEST GOSSIP

In these hard times, it may be news that an actor turned down Universal's offer to play Buffalo Bill because he refused to wear a goatee. . . . Rumors are pesky things. After all the talk, Colleen Moore insists she is not going to be married for a long time. By the way, she's rented her big house, her car and her chauffeur to Joseph Schnitzer, head of R-K-O. . . . Shocking as it may seem, Ronald Colman is said to go entirely through his new picture, "The Unholy Garden," with uncombed hair. . . . Will Rogers shames the eccentric Buffalo Bill candidate by consenting to wear whiskers in his latest. He bears a startling resemblance to G. B. Shaw. . . . A new arrival is John Colton, the playwright, who will work on his story, "East River," a likely choice for Pola Negri's second film. . . . Gloria Swanson is due here soon. She arrives in New York July 4, and will lose no time in starting west to make "Tonight or Never" for United Artists. This is one of the three remaining films under her contract. . . . After 14 months, Harry Hoyt has finished contriving all the prehistoric animals for "Creation" and expects to start shooting this R-K-O film in the not too distant future. Months ago, the first 500 feet of test film was made. . . . Dare I repeat that El Brendel is keeping cool these days by reading his fan mail?

TO LARGER QUARTERS

Taking Horace Greeley's advice, Chic Sale is moving his publishing house from St. Louis to Hollywood. It was this plant which broadcast 1,000,000 copies of "The Specialist." This work, I need not add, has made a fortune for Chic. In his best month, he took in $76,000 from American lovers of homey humor.

Successor Named For Col. Bain Here

Col. Jarvis J. Bain, United States district engineer here, will leave his Pittsburgh post about November 1, it was learned when President Hoover yesterday directed the appointment of Maj. Wilhelm D. Styer as his successor. Styer, now assigned to duty with the American Battle Monuments Commission in Europe, was directed to take up his duties here November 1.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., June 27.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Mr. Mellon has got a tough job. He has to go to Paris and explain to the French that it's better if Germany didn't pay anything for a year. When you start in telling France something about Germany, that's kinder like explaining politics to Calvin Coolidge. It can't be done. France will say, "That's fine, Mr. Mellon, from a Pittsburgh angle, but we happen to live right across the river from 'em and we know what's going to happen to us soon as they are able again. What are you trying to do, shorten our lives one year?

Will Rogers

Yours, WILL.

COAL FIRM TAX RULING HELD UP

Federal Judge R. M. Gibson reserved decision yesterday after hearing arguments on the application of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation for an injunction to enjoin D. B. Heiner, collector of internal revenue, from selling property of the corporation to satisfy taxes.

The government claims taxes for the year 1917 in the sum of $287,958 and interest, amounting to $378,366. Since June 15 it has had some of the coal property of the corporation under seizure. Attorney C. F. Taplin, of Cleveland, representing the corporation, and Attorney Allin H. Pierce, of Washington, and Attorney John A. McCann, of Pittsburgh, special representatives of counsel for the Bureau of Internal Revenue, were directed to submit additional briefs on the points of law involved.

Fine Program Is Offered In Penn

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"I Take This Woman," which is filmese for Mary Roberts Rinehart's "Lost Ecstacy," is the principal screen fare in the Penn, where it is shown along with a right nifty stage attraction, featuring Irving Aaronson's Commanders, an orchestra that certainly knows how to orch in that swell manner.

Gary Cooper and Carole Lombard are the chief screenites. Gary motivating the "I Take" of the film title and Miss Lombard personizing the "This Woman." Gary is realistic as a long, lanky cowhand on the ranch of Carole's pa, 'way out in Wyoming, where she goes to visit. She is a spoiled daughter of a rich man.

TRAPPED IN OWN TRAP

Because Gary is indifferent toward her she makes up her mind to conquer him just as he tames horses. And the first thing she knows she is his wife—roughing it on a ranch that she grows to hate, but is glad to go back to when she tries leaving it cold.

It is a simple story with the strength simplicity usually has. It is a western tale without bandits or gun-play. It has no tensely dramatic factors but does have an honest heart interest, and one or two scenes that are touching without being mawkish. You'll like brusque Gary and headstrong Carole.

NOVELTY IN MUSIC

Mr. Aaronson's Commanders command the audience to take notice in the terms of musical novelty and the aud just does that little thing—glad to. For one of the novelties a bunch of Commanders, each with a bottle that would make Mr. Volstead weep, parodies "Sing (Drink) Something Simple" then taps out the tune on the bottles. Clevah, indeed.

Jay C. Flippen flips a lot of wiseys and manhandles an enormous cigar, all with a nonsensical intent that is well achieved. Fay Brady and Edna Sedgwick demonstrate the acute activity of uneasy feet. Dick Leibert and his teasing organ sets 'em all (audience) singin'.

The Sun-Telegraph's Globe Trotter tells all about interesting things throughout the world while the Hearst Metrotone News shows graphic talkie pictures of the same incidents. Thus we hear Globe Trotter describe the take-off of the two groups of fliers who just flew the Atlantic and hear the voices of the airmen also. This reel also has other views of much interest.

Flour Club Elects, Plans Member Drive

Plans for a membership drive were outlined at a meeting of the Pittsburgh Flour Club, last night in the Fort Pitt Hotel. V. M. Wintermantel was elected president of the club and Walter C. Mansfield, vice president. H. S. Lewis, L. U. Hayman and H. D. Gilpin were appointed to a special committee on membership.

Reception Tomorrow Honors Musmanno

Attorney M. A. Musmanno, candidate for the Republican nomination for judge of County Court, will be honor guest of the Republican Club of the Nineteenth Ward at a reception tomorrow afternoon in Mennerchor Hall, Mt. Washington.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

You know the cruel jape—"beautiful but dumb?" Well, forget it when you think about Dorothy Dell, "Miss Universe" by Galveston decree, who is one of the dollies in Mr. Ziegfeld's "Follies." Why beauty and dumbness are supposed to be twins is beyond us, when it is remembered that beauty and intelligence so often are combined, especially among women of the stage. Anyway, Dorothy Dell is not dumb. Patrons of "Follies" who expected only that she would be visible as one of the pretties of the piece, with nothing to do, were surprised when she up and sang a song in a cabaret scene and got away with it nicely, although it wasn't exactly a nice song. Rather naughty, but Dorothy is nice in it, if you are able to make the distinction in meaning. And sings not badly. Dorothy evidently is going somewhere, despite any implied handicap of that which is supposed to be a corelative of beauty.

A ham actor saw a stage hand, or electrician, or something, hanging around, seemingly with nothing to do, and asked him what was his "vocation." The man said he was a Methodist.

"No," said the mummer, that's your belief. I man what you do—your vocation. My vocation is acting."

"Maybe that's only your belief, too," was the comeback.

A little aged but still good.

A Columnist's Sec'y Jots Down a Few Notes

Dear W. W.: Numerous complaints have come from aviation officials because of your statement that since Rockne's crash, air travel is off more than half . . . They assert it isn't so . . . Dentists from here, there, and it seems everywhere, are in a fret because you said most silver fillings are copper . . . One of them trusts you never get rid of your next toothache . . . Lila Lee has improved, it appears, but she is urged by doctors to go to Tahiti to assure a complete recovery . . . A number of Friars phoned to thank you for all the comment on their Frolic . . . But in toasting the finale you credited Mr. Cohan with writing it, when you should have placed the wreath on Jessel . . . Better warn your girl friends, who are planning a trip to Hollywood . . . I learn that the newest gag out there is to hand the ladies a new Paris importation in the form of a one-piece bathing suit . . . It is made of fabric chemicals that disappear in the water leaving the dears peeled . . . Aren't you men the ones!

Because you printed that quip by Jack Osterman on Al Trahan, the King's jester, Al's agent, Charlie Moccasin, slugged Osterman at a party . . . Don't forget to duck! . . . Norma Taylor, who went with Miss Guinan to Havre, hoping to get her divorce from William Duryea, whom she married only recently, was saying last night that the matter would be abrogated right here . . . I saw Lupe Velez with Earl Carroll last night . . . She will be one of his new "Vaniteasers" . . . Mr. B. phoned and said that he didn't want you to ignore the other radio jobs, if they were better than his, but that he is ready, if you are . . . Call him at 6:30 . . . Ann Pennington is furious about that advertisement which gives her age in the latter 30s . . . "Penny" says she never was consulted and knows nothing about it, and that she may sue . . . And that her birth certificate will prove she isn't in the Fanny Ward division yet . . . A "Penny" for your thoughts.

Mr. Worthington called. Says he has a new suite on the 11th floor . . . Told him you wanted it nearer the roof because of the traffic noises . . . My sister suggests that Broun's show be changed from "Shoot the Works!" to "Shoot the Worst!" . . . Saw Billie Mae in "Wooden Soldier" . . . Very nice person. . . . The piece may fold Saturday night, one consecutive week! . . . I have been trying to get Jimmy Durante to ask him about that so-and-such. No can . . . I was going to suggest that in diversion seekers you ought to finish with—and the male choir in the new "Follies" if you like male choirs, but who likes male choirs? . . . Your seats came—second drawer left under the chewing gum.

Your fight ticket will be left at Spinrad's barber shop . . . Did you know that Victor McLaglen was once one of the Romano Brothers in vaudeville? . . . He did plastic poses on the Keith time . . . I like that Lupe Velez gal at the Palace . . . She's the only one from Hollywood who is really herself . . . Wears one dress all through the act, acts natural, pokes fun at herself and is really loaded with what you Men Consider So Important . . . Everybody I know seems to feel that Walter Wanger is the goat over at Paramount . . . He is blamed, you know, because that firm hasn't had a hit flicker in ever so long. . . . Nancy Carroll is glad because you soft-pedaled matters.

Have a splendid idea for you on how to get a real thick sun tan . . . Ran into Lindy, the restaurant man, and he looks swell . . . Says he always sits behind third base at the Polo Grounds . . . And that the sun isn't so hot at the Yankee Stadium because they were greedy and built too many grandstands . . . You had 558 letters . . . Why is it every time I see a man with a pipe in his mouth I immediately think of a bulldog? . . . Terry Ramsaye, of the Motion Picture Herald, called . . . Wanted to know if there is any truth to the rumor that Dreiser's "American Tragedy" title will be changed to: "Did She Fall or Was She Pushed?" . . . Betty Compton's recent groom, Dowling, has the darnest luck . . . He got a new apartment and invited his friends to a housewarming to celebrate his freedom and a fire burned it to ashes . . . Walter Chrysler, Jr., was going to call his new home York House until someone told him it was the name of a Maternity Hospital.

An anxious man initialed G. F. B., urges you to run this: "Margie, wherever you are, communicate with Everett R. Prout, Central Bldg., Quincy, Mass. Important" . . . Miriam Love, following an operation at the Beth David, is very ill . . . She's a niece of the Finley Peter Dunne tribe . . . Brentano's and other book shops called to inquire about Frescott's horoscope tome, so I phoned Frescott.

Far be it from me to shatter your illusions . . . But now that Walt Whitman, one of your favorites, is Hall of Famed, one of his alleged pals has given him an ugly break in a new book . . . He says that in his old age, Whitman had the nasty habit of always carrying crackers and cheese in his pockets . . . And that the mice had themselves a time gnawing at the pockets, etc. . . . Ugh! . . . A Pittsburgh man in town called, and said you will be thrilled when you hear Etting warble Nora Bayes' one-time hit, "Shine On, Harvest Moon," in the "Follies" . . . I told him she "got" you even with "London Bridge Is Falling Down" . . . And he got very confidential and said: "I thought she was married," so I said: "See here, Mr. Winchell will match his private life with any columnist!"

In case you forget which months have 30 days and which have 31, then close your fist and call the knuckle on the index finger January . . . The next knuckle is March, the next May and so on . . . In other words, the hollows between the knuckles represent the months with 30 days—the knuckles represent the months with 31—except the first hollow which is Feb'y, and that, of course, hasn't 31 days or even 30 . . . Or didn't thou know that, milord? Mr. Broun wants to know if you know any benefactors with coin, who want to contribute any of it to the production he is putting on to help unemployed players . . . He said one man had given $1,000 already . . . And, that sir, is what happened since 11 this a. m. . . . You know what 11 a. m. is, don't you? . . . That's one hour before noon—exactly six hours before you open your gweat big boo eyes.—R. C.

Mr. Ruggles Likes the Ladies

By MILDRED FILLMORE

Charlie Ruggles goes the way of a flirt in the Fulton and the Sheridan Square, and the laughs fall all along the way. Mr. Ruggles, you know, is the fellow who drank himself into movie notoriety in "Gentlemen of the Press." Now he's a star in his own right, and his current film is "The Girl Habit," a comedy.

He's a wealthy young blade, who gets himself engaged to one girl and has about a dozen others telephoning him and demanding: "What's the idea?" As a Romeo he's true enough blue; but he just can't help being nice to all the ladies. He has to learn, however, that it is better to telegraph than to write.

The story isn't the most original thing in the world. Nor can it be said that the situations are ultra-modern. But with Mr. Ruggles at the comedy helm the affair gets over in amusing style.

It starts out with Mr. Ruggles in a bathtub and ends up with him—oh, well, everyone is happy at the finale.

Supporting players include Sue Conroy, Margaret Dumont and Tamara Geva, formerly dancer of the stage.

Ocean Flights Prove the Wind Is in Our Favor

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Ocean flights by Americans prove one thing.

If the next war is in the air we have the wind with us.

The old breeze blows west to east for 50 weeks out of 52. That makes us a 26-to-1 favorite over our nearest Atlantic neighbors.

If we can't whip them in the first 50 weeks then we have no ear for music.

They say the next war will be in the air. If we remember correctly they didn't fight the last one in telephone booths. There was plenty of stratospheric scrimmaging.

The next skirmish won't be so fierce anyway if you like to read. You report for duty at the hangar with your parachute and a portfolio full of propaganda.

You fly the Atlantic. Scatter your propaganda until Europe looks like a picnic grounds on Monday morning. Then you fly home for another edition.

As we don't print anything but bad news for the enemy, they soon get discouraged. It worked very well last time and next time we will have a much bigger circulation.

Home Talent In Stanley Parade

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

Well, here's one home town boy cheering for the home town talent. That "Pittsburgh on Parade" revue in the Stanley surpasses expectations. You wouldn't think it could happen until you've seen it.

We're not saying it's the greatest show on earth, or anything like that. But it needn't blush at the mention of Broadway. It has a splash and a dash of the "big time." Who'd have thought there were so many natives talented at the entertaining. Clever kids. Clever grownups. Give 'em a hand!

HA, HA—HERE'S PENNER

Joe Penner, the looney comic, who almost brings down the house, and three Negro steppers, who are a wow, are among imported talent that mixes in with the home folks. And Dick Powell is present, happy and alert, holding the whole affair together in his best showmanship manner.

It is a lengthy show. But maybe it has been cut down some since the opening performance yesterday. It closes with an impressionistic depiction of Pittsburgh's industries, which is cleverly executed.

If we started to name all the performers, this comment would read like a telephone book. It would take a Ziegfeld to get more persons on a stage at one time.

THE CUB REPORTER

The film attraction is "Up for Murder," co-featuring Lew Ayres and Genevieve Tobin. Mr. Ayres is seen as a cub reporter, who falls in love with a gay-girl type of society editor. She's as sophisticated as night club knight and he's as innocent as a night on the farm. But he's a jealous one. He gets into a fight with a rival, and murder is done. The dead man happens to be the owner of the paper and this causes an awful rumpus. The story isn't very convincing and Mr. Ayres is worthy of a better role.

DEVINE GREAT HELP TO LOCAL CLUB

EVIDENTLY A LOSING season for the Pirates is not to be confined to mere ball games. Having lost about everything else in recent weeks, they're now about to lose a valuable scout in addition. The probable passing of Joe Devine to become manager of the Mission club in the Pacific Coast League will take away one of the important cogs of the Buccaneer machine, and the loss is all the heavier because it is suffered at a period when the local club needs new material for future upbuilding more urgently than in a long time.

Joe Devine

Devine, a Pirate agent for eight years, has been one of the most successful scouts in the country. With rare judgment as to the merits of young baseball timber, even when only in the sandlot stage, he combines the faculty of character reading. He made a study of the temperament and habits as well as the diamond possibilities of each athlete he scouted, and more than one who looked good enough for the big show as far as playing ability was concerned was turned down because Joe figured he would not be "a good man on a ball club."

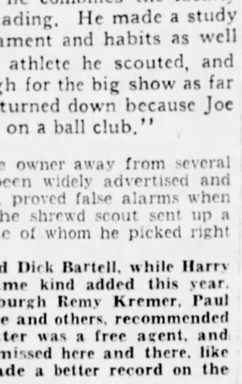
IN ADDITION TO steering the Pirate owner away from several high-priced Coast performers who had been widely advertised and boosted, but who, true to Devine's sizeups, proved false alarms when purchased by other major league clubs, the shrewd scout sent up a string of real live ones to the Rovers, some of whom he picked right off the lots at no cost.

In the latter class were Joe Cronin and Dick Bartell, while Harry Geisberger is another prospect of the same kind added this year. Besides, it was Devine who sent to Pittsburgh Remy Kremer, Paul Waner, Larry French, Gus Suhr, Hay Rhyne and others, recommended the signing of Lloyd Waner when the latter was a free agent, and advised the drafting of Earl Sheely. He missed here and there, like any human, but no scout in the game made a better record on the whole during the same period.

DEVINE'S UNUSUALLY LONG list of players sent up is in sharp contrast to the record of a man who preceded him as the Pittsburgh club's scout on the Coast—George Van Haltren, big league pitcher and outfielder of 40 years ago and more, and himself a Pirate in 1892 and 1893.

Van Haltren represented the Bucs on the Coast for a span of years without ever recommending a single player. Yet President Dreyfuss rated him the most valuable scout in his employ at the time, as Van Haltren saved the Pittsburgh club a fortune by advising against the purchase of flashy athletes who were put on the market at fancy prices but who proved failures in fast company later.

FRANK WATT, who toppled the Pirates for their thirteenth defeat in the last 15 games, and stretched their losing streak to 20 reverses in the last 26 contests, is one of four brothers long prominent in semi-pro circles in Washington. He is a converted third baseman. Before joining the Phillies, Watt pitched for San Antonio and Fort Worth in the Texas League and was given a tryout by Detroit. Believing that his pitching days were about over, he applied last winter for a place on the metropolitan police force in Washington, but before an appointment could be made he joined the Phils at their southern training camp and showed up so well that a contract was offered and accepted. He won one other game this year, defeating the Reds, lost one to the Cubs and figured in 15 additional bouts as a relief hurler.



Lloyd Waner

THOUGH THE SHIFTING of Lloyd Waner to second base had been considered among other plans earlier in the season with a view to bolstering the leaky Pirate infield, it was only as a last desperate resort that Manager Ens finally put it into execution. The chances that the move will prove successful are none too encouraging. The younger Waner hasn't been up to his best form on ground balls even in the outfield this season, and in the event that he shows an improvement and makes good at the midway there is no assurance that the infield again will not be more than offset by a weakening of the outfield.

During Lloyd's illness last season the slips of other players who tried to fill his place in the outergarden caused the loss of at least a dozen games. The latest experiment may be inviting the same thing over again. It's rather late for Waner to start learning a new trade. Barring three first basemen—Dale Alexander, Harvey Denrick and Don Hurst—the only infielder now in the majors who started as an outfielder is Oscar Melillo, Brown second sacker, who was originally a fly chaser for three years in the minors. Of course, there was Honus Wagner, but Wagners only come along about every 100 years.

THE TAILEND CLUBS are playing hob with the leaders in the American League race. After the Browns had knocked off the Athletics four times in a row and cut their pennant lead over Washington to a single game, the last-place White Sox gave the idle Mackmen a helping hand yesterday by beating the Senators for the first time this season.

Before flagging the Johnsons in their attempt to overtake the A's, the White Sox had lost 14 out of 17 straight games, and Pat Caraway, who pitched the victory and allowed only five hits, had lost six in succession. Yet a slumping club and a slumping pitcher were able to stop a team that had just won 15 out of 17.

AS IN ANY other uncertain sport, you can't safely count on a golf victory until it has been actually clinched, but following the playing of the first half of the Ryder Cup international matches at Columbus, O., it looks reasonably certain today that the trophy

YANKS, BRITONS BATTLE IN SINGLES

COLUMBUS, O., June 27.—(AP.)—The British Lion was down but far from out today as the international duel between England and America for the prized Ryder Cup moved into its final and deciding battle.

Turned back, three matches to one, in the first skirmish over the rugged, trap-infested Scioto battleground, the British faced a dramatic uphill fight, but felt confident of turning the tide and giving the squat little trophy, emblem of international professional golf supremacy, another trip across the Atlantic. Capt. Walter Hagen and his mates were highly optimistic, but aware and respectful of their foe's comeback qualities.

Today's final skirmish consisted of eight singles matches in which Capt. Hagen and Capt. Charles Whitcombe, of his majesty's forces, carefully laid their battle lines with their prize troops—fighters who proved their ability in yesterday's shelling. This was the lineup:

Archie Compston, England, vs. Billy Burke, America.
Fred Robson, England, vs. Gene Sarazen, America.
W. H. Davies, England, vs. Johnny Farrell, America.
Abe Mitchell, England, vs. Wiffy Cox, America.
Charles Whitcombe, England, vs. Walter Hagen, America.
Kurt Hodson, England, vs. Densmore Shute, America.
E. Whitcombe, England, vs. Al Espinosa, America.
Arthur Havers, England, vs. Craig Wood, America.

STARS ON SIDELINES

On the sidelines were two players from each team—the veteran George Duncan and the youthful Syd Easterbrook, of England, who were defeated in separate two-ball foursomes yesterday, and Leo Diegel and Horton Smith, of the American team. Diegel was so dissatisfied with his losing performance yesterday that he asked to be given a gallery seat while Smith was so far off his famous game that Capt. Hagen decided he couldn't take a chance on him in any of the matches, making him the only member of his 10-man team to take a complete rest.

Although the Hagen-Shute triumph over Duncan and Havers, coming at the twenty-seventh hole, 10 up and 9 to play, was by far the most sensational of the opening day's battle, the scoring of the second American point by Sarazen and Farrell over Comps-

COLTS, BECKLEY GAIN GROUND

Cumberland and Beckley both gained ground on the league-leading Charleston Senators in the Middle Atlantic League yesterday.

While Charleston was being defeated by Fairmont, both Beckley and the Colts won, the Beckley nine scoring a 4-0 shutout over Wheeling, Beam hurled a fine game, limiting the Stogies to two safe hits.

Fairmont, outhit 5 to 4, scored a 6-to-2 victory over Charleston. Fairmont also made three errors against two for the leaders. Cumberland slammed the ball hard to turn back Altoona, 11 to 3.

Clarksburg defeated Huntington, 6 to 4, to get within half a game of seventh place.

PHILADELPHIA, June 27.—The last place spectre haunting their dreams and waking hours, the Pirates today faced a two-edged argument with the Phillies. The clans of Ens and Shotton are slated to tangle in a double header at the notorious Baker Bowl. Wood and Spencer are likely to pitch for the Buccos, with J. Elliott and Benge toiling for the Phils.

The Freebooters were on the bitter end of a 13-to-2 battle yesterday, the defeat making it five in a row for the Pirates, who also have been trimmed eight times in their 10 starts in the East.

So it is small wonder the Buccos are crowding the Reds in the race for the cellar berth. But two games separate the two teams, the Howleymen closing in

Says Nick Altrock

(Baseball's Comedian)

CHICAGO, June 27.—Hand it to Chicago for a baseball town. From what I read in the papers the city was broke. School teachers didn't get salaries for two months and the public schools paid off their graduates with I. O. U's instead of diplomas. The cops hadn't been paid off, either—I mean by the city. So I figured the only ones that could afford to look at ball games were the public enemies and the mascots. But, boy, the turnout crowds. Chi is so baseball mad it takes five local radio stations to give 'em the play by play and even the White Sox couldn't get better support if they were gigolos married to rich widows.

BROWNS TURN GIANT KILLERS IN AMERICAN

West Penn Title Tennis Tournament to Complete Semi-Final Rounds Today

ROBINS DEFEAT CARDS; CUBS LOSE AGAIN

Associated Press.

After playing nearly half a season without showing any signs of getting anywhere in the American League standing, the St. Louis Browns seem to have nominated themselves as the giant killers of the circuit, if nothing else. The Browns skidded badly after the first week of the campaign, dropping into a nine-game losing streak, and never recovered from it.

Yet in the past week the Browns have electrified the fans by winning eight out of nine games. They finished a second nine-game string of defeats just after they returned from the East, then turned around and won three from the New York Yankees and four out of five from the champion Philadelphia Athletics.

BROWNS TOP CHISOX

St. Louis took a tight game from Boston in the series opener yesterday. Off to a two-run lead in the first inning, they were tied in the seventh when Jack Rothrock hit a homer, but came back in the same inning to win their fifth straight game, 3 to 2.

In the only other American League game yesterday, Chicago beat Washington, 4 to 3. Pat Caraway broke the White Sox' five-game losing streak by holding the Senators to five hits.

A pair of upsets provided the feature of the National League's day. The Brooklyn Robins handed the league leading St. Louis Cardinals a sound trouncing, 16 to 5, while the Boston Braves made it two straight over Chicago by a 7-to-3 count. The Robins started off with eight runs in the first inning against Burleigh Grimes and never stopped hitting.

The Braves also made a quick start, pounding Pat Malone from the mound with four runs in the first. All of Chicago's runs came in the sixth when the Cubs did not make a hit, but Siebold walked three.

GIANTS BLANK REDS

The New York Giants regained the game they lost to St. Louis the day before by beating the Cincinnati Reds, 2 to 0. Bill Walker held the Reds to four hits.

The Phillies outdid Brooklyn in hitting, collecting 18 blows off Pittsburgh pitching, but could not equal their run total. Philadelphia won by a 13-to-2 count, giving the Pirates their thirteenth defeat in 15 games.

400 TO SEEK JUNIOR TITLE

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

A final count of entries for the fourth annual Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph West Penn junior amateur golf tournament for the William Randolph Hearst Trophy, and other beautiful prizes, shows 650 entries, with more than 400 of that number slated to tee off at the Schenley Park municipal links Tuesday.

Entrants in the tournament will find the pairings and starting times in Sunday's Sun-Telegraph—and no other notification will be given. Contenders not presenting themselves at the tee within 10 minutes of their starting time will be disqualified.

An arbitration committee, to settle all disputes as to the rules and regulations, has been announced by Honorary Director John Jay Burke. It will include S. Walter Phillips, Joe Platt and Burke, and they will decide finally on all protests, in conjunction with the Golf Tournament Editor.

A number of interested golfers, aside from a number of caddiemasters and professionals, have offered their services as officials at the tourney. Among them are Bob Gumbert, C. H. Klengensmith and G. S. Nycum.

HELEN JACOBS NET VICTOR

WIMBLEDON STADIUM, England, June 27.—(AP.)—Helen Jacobs, of California, today advanced to the quarter-finals of the Wimbledon tennis championships with a 6-2, 6-1 victory over Mrs. Kitty McKane Godfree, of England.

Miss Jacobs won as she pleased, giving the former Wimbledon champion only three games.

There was no touch of the former champion in Mrs. Godfree's play today, and Miss Jacobs, also off form, was lucky she was not facing Betty Nuthall or some other top flight player.

Juro Satch, Japanese Davis Cup star, gained the quarter-final bracket with a three-set victory over H. G. N. Lee, of England. The scores were 8-6, 6-4, 6-3. Lee defeated George Lott, Jr., in the third round.

OAKMONT WINS TEAM DUEL

A shutout victory scored at the expense of Fox Chapel yesterday in the W. G. A. team league match enabled the Oakmont team, captained by Anjeannette Hunter, to strengthen its lead in Section I of the league.

Stanton Heights landed a 7-to-2 win over Shannopin in another duel and Allegheny blanked Edgewood, 8 to 0.

Sports Vignettes

A Carrick youth, one John Schmieler, Jr., of 527 Brownsville road, today joins a team of 12 star swimmers who will compete in Hawaii and Japan . . . The squad will gather at the Lake Shore A. C., in Chicago, and head for San Francisco, from which point it will sail next Wednesday . . . Bob Kiputh, Yale coach, is in charge of the aggregation . . . Schmieler swam his first strokes as a member of the Hill Top Y. M. C. A., and credits Byron King, his coach there, for his development . . . He is a star at the University of Michigan, while two brothers, Joe and Bob, attend Pitt.

J. Schmieler, Jr.

Tom Birks, our soccer expert, will referee the game between the local German Sport Club and the Bruell Germans, of Cleveland, at Conneaut Lake Park, tomorrow afternoon, the feature of the German Sendoff Day for Max Schmeling, who defends his world heavyweight title against Young Stribling in Cleveland next Friday night . . . More than 1,000 local Germans will make the trip to the resort for the occasion . . . Jim Corbett and Gene Tunney, both former heavyweight champions and good boxers, lean toward Stribling to win the Cleveland battle because he rates as a better boxer than Schmeling . . . It's a funny, yet natural, thing how former ringmen always go for their own kind in picking winners . . . A former boxer likes a boxer and a former puncher likes a puncher.

Red Lyday, Bunny Buntach's new middleweight fighter, from Columbus, O., is a refreshing character who also answers to the name of Flaming Youth . . . Max Schmeling is only one year younger than Young Stribling, at 25, although the latter has had many, many more fights than the German . . . Both are "little" fellows for heavyweights, fighting around the 190-pound mark, which is big enough for any man in the ring, provided he is good . . . Willie Davies, veteran bantamweight, of Charleroi, is suffering from an infected jaw and will not be able to box either Mose Butch at the Meyers Bowl or Jimmy Thomas at Hickey Park week after next, and the promoters now are moving to get Thomas and Butch together.

Who can remember back to the days when the Chamber of Commerce and sundry other bodies were all gummed up with plans to greet the victorious Pirates on their return from trips abroad? . . . And a fellow couldn't make a living by playing the percentage and betting the Bucs would lose on any given day?—HARRY KECK.

RODGERS ENDS GRIND TODAY

Jackie Rodgers will knock off training today for his 10-round return bout with Chico Cisneros, Mexican, of Erie, at the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, Monday night. Cisneros meantime also will finish his preparation and is due to arrive here tomorrow morning and stop at the Penn-Lincoln Hotel in Wilkinsburg.

The Bowl reports a lot of interest in the reappearance of Rodgers and indications are that the crowd will be one of the best of the season so far.

The management of Hickey Park, Millvale, today announced the signing of Nordi Smith and Billy Holt, rival Negro welterweights, of Homewood, for an elimination battle in the eight-round semi-final to its Buck McTiernan-Ted Yarosz setto next Wednesday night.

The card has been completed for the wrestling show slated at Hickey Park Tuesday night, as follows:

Mike Romano vs. Ivan Vacturoff to a finish; Dick Daviscourt vs. Milo Steinborn, 45 minutes, and Rudy Dusek vs. Tiny Roebuck, Tom Draak vs. Steve Znosko and Charley Allen, of the South Side, vs. Peter Verlinich, 30 minutes each.

Between Rounds

Jackie Wilson, former local middleweight, who has been boxing around New York recently, will join Manager James (Red) Mason in Chicago, Jack Moore, a friend of Mason, was handling him in the East.

Jimmy Kelly, former North Side southpaw welterweight knockout artist, bested Spur Myers in a 12-round bout at Dayton, O., Monday night.

The Tony Herrera-Johnny Jadick postponed match is back in at the Meyers Bowl for July 13.

Tommy Loughran will discuss the Schmeling-Stribling bout from WJZ and associated radio stations at 9:15 eastern daylight saving time tomorrow night.

The Hogan A. C., will stage an amateur boxing show in the arena of the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C., North Side, Monday night.

An amateur show will be held in German Masonic Hall, North Side, Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Krah A. C.

Jimmy Moore, local Negro middleweight with a rock jaw, is under the management of Bill Heckman, who has signed him to a contract for two years.

Hunk Anderson's Condition Serious

is coming back to this country. The capture of three out of four matches by the American players in the foursome makes necessary only an even break with the British team in the eight singles matches today to assure victory for the United States, and on the form shown so far Capt. Hagen and his mates look easily equal to that contract.

WHILE MANY BIG colleges throughout the land are making sweeping changes in their athletic departments and policies, the University of Pittsburgh is one institution that has not found it necessary to alter its system. The local school has made rapid strides in recent years toward the highest ideals in collegiate sports, and many of the so-called reforms taken up of late in other directions are already in force at Pitt.

For instance, though the Panther authorities have not gone to the extreme of requiring that all coaches be bona fide members of the faculty, there has been a gradual trend in that direction. Three members of the football staff are full-time faculty members. They are Head Coach Sutherland and Assistant Coaches Montgomery and Gougler.

Dr. H. C. Carlson

JOE ORSINI, boxing coach, is also an instructor in the school of education. Joe Donchess, another assistant football coach, is still a student and will finish his course in medical school next June.

Pitt's schedules have shown a gradual elimination of minor games, which in many instances are responsible for the wrecking of the minor opponents' season. On this point, Panther chiefs apparently do not agree with other school heads who are talking about cutting the number of major games.

THIS APPLIES NOT oly to football, but to basketball, in which Dr. H. C. Carlson, floor coach, will face next year the hardest schedule ever undertaken by any college, and to track as well. The bringing to The Stadium of teams so nationally prominent in various sports as Notre Dame, Army, Ohio State, Syracuse, Nebraska, Montana State, Purdue, Indiana, Creighton, Dartmouth, Temple, Iowa and Georgetown has not hurt Pitt's standing in the country. At the same time, while these moves have been made, the scholastic ranking of Panther athletes has not been allowed to slide, as witness the suspension of Ralph Daugherty, veteran football center, and several of his mates during the last week. And with the dropping of these men came the development that the standing of other athletes was higher than that of the general run of students in the university. It's a situation showing that even before the Carnegie Foundation report appeared some of the colleges were already taking steps on their own initiative to do whatever cleaning up was needed.

Eddie Anderson Loses to Bojorski

Matty Mathison, 119, of Toronto, won in six rounds over Dan Billick, 123, Pittsburgh.

Steve Simon, 138, Erie, defeated Moxey Brown, 199, New York, in six rounds. Carl Scalise, 126, of Erie, won a six-round verdict over Johnny Zack, 131, also of Erie.

WOMEN ACES GAIN TROPHY BRACKET

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Storm-battered, but undismayed, racquet warriors winding up a solid week of competition in the forty-third annual Western Pennsylvania net championships toe the mark at Stanton Heights today in program of singles and doubles milling with avowed object of reducing all fields to points whence final matches may be reeled off tomorrow. Despite stringencies occasioned by terrific rains, Chairman Frank Smith and his indefatigable aides have proclaimed firm intention of pushing all hands to the limit till last possible moment of daylight tonight.

Combat period yesterday was brief and largely monpolized by the feminine luminaries, fair stars battling through semi-final singles jousts in speedy order. Miriam Sullivan, P. A. A. driver from St. Mary's College and first seeded performer, rushed the barrier to dispose of Mrs. Caroline Kurtz, Mt. Lebanon slicer, 6-1, 6-2, to lead the way into the trophy round, with Helen Carson, clever Greensburg southpaw, of Vassar, following to upset the seeding by eliminating Mrs. Jean Artzberger, Pittsburgh Public Parks titleholder and No. 2 on the select list, by a 6-3, 6-2 margin.

Men's singles quarter-finalists were unable to complete a tussle, though two frays were begun and carried to second sets.

Today's card calls for the remaining women's doubles semi-final tilt to go on at noon, with the final debate scheduled for an hour later. Men's singles quarter-finals command attention from 1:30 p. m. till about 3, with semi-final cavorting tentatively ordered for 3:30. All contestants in men's and mixed doubles must report at the Heights lot no later than 2 o'clock or be liable to default. Yesterday's summary:

WOMEN'S SINGLES

Semi-final round—Helen Carson defeated Mrs. Jean Artzberger, 6-3, 6-2; Miriam Sullivan defeated Mrs. Caroline Kurtz, 6-1, 6-2.

TODAY'S SCHEDULE.

12:00 noon—Women's doubles, semi-final round—Miriam Sullivan and Ruth E. Downey vs. Frances Allerdice and Mrs. Harvey Childs III.

1:00 p. m.—Women's doubles, final round—Mrs. Iris du Tait and Sana Maurometf vs. winner of Sullivan and Downey-Allerdice and Childs match.

1:30 p. m.—Men's singles, fifth round—Dr. John L. O'Loughlin vs. B. F. Arkle; Dr. David L. O'Loughlin vs. McCook Reed.

2:00 p. m.—Men's and mixed doubles; unplayed early-round matches.

2:30 p. m.—Men's singles, fifth round—William P. Haseltine vs. William S. Ramsay; Sam Harbison vs. William O'Loughlin.

DUNLAP CHOICE FOR TITLE

CHICAGO, June 27.—(AP.)—The golf championship of the country's colleges lies between George T. Dunlap, Jr., of Princeton University, and Robert H. Kepler, of Ohio State. Today, they will meet over Olympia Fields' stern No. 4 course for the title now held by Dunlap.

Dunlap, 118-pound blond terror from East Orange, N. J., a veteran tournament player, won his way through the 36-hole semi-final round yesterday by defeating Tommy Aycock, of Yale, 9 and 8. Dunlap succeeded Aycock as king last year when the Jacksonville, Fla., boy was not in college to defend his title.

Kepler, a big, easy-swinging, slow-moving Dayton, O., youth, eliminated his teammate, Johnny Floris, 6 and 5.

Dunlap's consistently good golf throughout the tourney and his superior tournament experience established him as favorite. Both rivals today are 22 years old but Dunlap qualified in the 1928 and 1930 national amateur tournaments, won the North and South amateur title last spring and took the intercollegiate last year.

PIRATES PLAY TWIN BILL

considerably since the intersectional scrap began.

L. WANER MOVED

Manager Ens yesterday made the most drastic change in his battle front that has been recorded in a year of many shifts. The skipper brought Lloyd Waner into the second base post, which position had been crying for help for months. Lloyd did not have much to do, but the few chances that came his way he handled in an acceptable manner.

Grantham, who disliked the keystone sack and who prefers first base, was moved to the gateway. It is singular to note that as soon as the Arizona star landed at a spot where he could be natural he struck his best gait at the barrier. George hammered out four hits, and his fifth effort brought a piece of robbery on the part of Mallon, who made a leaping one-hand catch of a line drive.

Grantham's best hitting card of the season disclosed a triple, two doubles and a single. Suhr, meantime, was riding the bench with his pathetic batting slump.

Ens brought Brother Lloyd into the keystone area in the hope that the defense play of the club at that particular spot would be strengthened. Moreover, he wants to have a boy in action there who can hit the ball.

U. S. PROS SET TO HOLD LEAD

ton and Davies was almost as one-sided.

Ending a deadlock which developed early in the morning, Sarazen and Farrell whipped Compston and Davies 8 up and 7 to play.

MITCHELL-ROBSON WIN

Close behind came Mitchell and Robson, the only British pair that was able to crowd out the American opposition. They defeated Espinosa and Diegel on the fifty-third, 3 up and 1 to play. A moment before Espinosa had erratically pitched into the creek and Diegel, believing the cause hopeless, picked up.

Because little had been expected of Whiffy Cox and Billie Burke, Americans who were chosen during the qualifying rounds early this week, their win over Easterbrook and Ernest Whitcombe, 3 up and 2 to play on the forty-third, was particularly pleasing to Capt. Hagen.

Act Like a Lady and You'll Be Treated Like One

Is the world safe for Pretty Girls?

Or are there Wolves lurking around every corner, waiting for a chance to snatch 'em?

Minta said it wasn't and there were. According to her, she couldn't walk down the street, even with Mamma beside her, without Being Insulted ——

Hers was really a Sad, Sad Case—and we turned it over to the Gang, hoping they'd give us a few hints on it. They did!

Listen while Frances broadcasts——

Dear Miss Martin:

Maybe I shouldn't take up your time with my raving, but Minta has my Scotch up—and how! I'd sure hate to live in the small world that this much insulted person inhabits. Gee! She certainly must think she is a large number!

So she can't walk down the street without these Dreadful Men making cracks at her from every corner! Well, well! In this day and age, does she think the "fast and loose" girls are so scarce that the men must openly insult every woman who passes by? Oh, what a laugh!

Why, there are so many of the "fast and loose" kind these days that it's the poor men who are in danger, and not the girls!

NEVER INSULTED

Now, Miss Minta, don't try to tell me that I don't know what I'm talking about. For I am a woman 29 years old, and I have been twice a widow. I have worked and lived in the heart of Los Angeles, and been on the streets alone more times than I can count, for many years . . . and I am not hard to look at, either, or two different men wouldn't have fallen hard enough for me to ask me to marry them—and they weren't the only ones—but I can't recall any men ever looking at me in an insulting manner, or making cracks when I passed. If they paid any attention to me at all as I went by, it was only to look at me with pleasant interest.

And I'm not the sort of girl men forget either. I have lots of friends—and sweethearts, too.

OWN FAULT

If you think you are so "charming" that a man just can't keep from insulting you—well, that's just your bad luck, sister. For most men aren't blind. They can see from your eyes and your actions just about what's in your mind. And if your mind's full of a lot of silly notions about your own charms . . . and about the men themselves . . . if you're expecting them to "say something" to you—they will. But it'll be your own fault.

So come to. Quit looking self-conscious every time you see a man a block off. Look and act like a lady, and I'm sure you'll be treated like one . . . even by the roughest of men.

FRANCES.

Well, girls 'n' boys, how about it?

Has Frances got the right dope?

Is it Minta's fault if the bozo on the corner makes eyes at her and tries to date her up, whether she knows him or not? Does she make him get that way by her own attitude?

Or is the world really unsafe for pretty girls?

Found Wanting

Drawn by Nell Brinkley

"My girl—or the beauteous creature I'd have liked for my girl—READ TOO MUCH! It spoiled the chances of a plain fellow like me." Mr. Bill Ordinary mourns. In spite of his pearl-grey hat, his collar and tie that lassoed his neck in deadly precision, so tightly precise that it gives him an alarmingly choked look, his kerchief sprayed from his pocket and matching its dots to the dots on his tie, his spats, his varnished hair, his generous purse, Gloriette kindly turned him down. "NOO-ooo;" she said gently, and absently, "I think I'll be a bachelor!"

But Bill knew better, though he doesn't suspect that Gloriette would really have warmed to him more if he had worn his own shoulders instead of the bold ones his coat gave him, even if he WAS no hero. It was too much reading! What chance has a poor 1931 chap in an unromantic world, struggling to wear the right clothes, make a living, make trains, keep up on the latest gang-war news, "not miss no good movies," and be a go-getter, against those mighty volumes of heroes in history, bound in scarlet and gold, holding the great men of the world, clothed in the purple and gold mystery of time, Shakespeare, Nelson, Galahad, Galileo, Charlemagne, Custer, Columbus, Michael Angelo, Leonardo Da Vinci, Cook, Richard, Pasteur, John Paul Jones, Fremont, Kitchener—listen to their sonorous names, and thousands of others. Inventors, sailors, soldiers, artists, authors, scientists, sculptors, BIG men.

Maybe we are making big men now. But Bill Ordinary, who has lost out, who lost the race even before he started to run it for the hand of Gloriette, says Gloriette can't see any—even when she is looking right at Him.

She's done too much reading.

—NELL BRINKLEY.

Correct Manners

A Wedding Reception

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. We are planning to attend a wedding reception which is to be held in the evening. The bride will wear the customary white dress and veil, thus stamping the affair formal. (Is this correct?) But the main question is this: A claims that it is correct to wear a white evening gown, which has just recently served as a wedding dress, if one is not a bridal attendant, but only a guest, who may wear anything she cares to.

B claims that white is incorrect for a guest to wear as the bride will wear white. Please settle for us, won't you?

2. Is it correct for a bride-to-be to accept a gift of a fur collar or anything that is in the class of personal belongings?

READER.

1. You are quite right in the first part of your question to consider the wedding a formal one, since the bride is to wear the traditional white dress and wedding veil.

It is correct to wear a white evening gown to this wedding. Especially this year when white evening gowns are so popular. A is correct.

2. Yes. Often a very close friend or relative will give a personal present to the bride. And often a close—and very generous—relative will give both, a personal present to the bride and a house present to the couple.

The Title "Mrs." Is Retained

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My bark of matrimony went on the reefs, and, not wishing to be reminded of the unhappy affair every time I was addressed, I asked for, and was granted by the court, the restoration of my maiden name with my divorce. Now I am having cards engraved and have struck a snag.

I have been told that it is never correct, once a woman has been married, for her to use the title of "Miss." However, I must have some title on my cards and, as I now use my maiden name, Gertrude Browman, exclusively, must I use the form "Mrs. Gertrude Browman?" This seems very awkward and I do not care for it at all. What, then, shall I use?

STILL ANOTHER READER.

This always is an awkward question of title, as you say. Some women do take back the entire maiden name, title and all, but usually the title of MRS. is used, under these circumstances, with the maiden name.

A Gentleman's Letter Paper

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you kindly inform me as to the correct letter paper—that is, the size and color—for a man.

BOB.

Men use for their social correspondence either a large double sheet which folds once into a square or oblong envelope, or a single sheet which folds twice into an oblong envelope. The paper should be of a generous size, larger than the sheet used by women. The double sheet is often nine or 10 inches long and wide in proportion. The single sheet is 10 or 11 inches long and about seven inches wide.

How to Keep Well

Control of Malaria a Victory of Science

Malaria is a disease which has been known to man since prehistoric times. There is every reason to believe that it was common long before the era of modern civilization. Hippocrates, "Father of Medicine," as early as the fifth century, B. C., gave an accurate description of this disease. Ancient Greek literature, extending from over 400 years B. C. to the fourteenth century A. D., describes the disease in almost the identical terms used by Hippocrates.

Dr. Copeland

About 1640, a marked change occurred in the history of malaria. This was brought about by the introduction in Europe of the cinchona plant. The plant gave to mankind the first remedy for the treatment and cure of malaria. In addition, it served as a means of differentiating malaria fever from other fevers. Later, it was discovered that the value of cinchona is really due to its quinine content.

In 1880, Laveran, a French Army surgeon, discovered the cause of malaria. The malaria plasmodium, the parasite causing the disease, was now definitely known.

In 1898, Sir Ronald Ross definitely determined the mosquito to be the carrying agent. He demonstrated that man can become infected only by the bite of a mosquito, and that only a certain species of mosquito transmits the malarial parasite.

With eradication of the mosquito and its breeding places, isolation of malarial patients and adequate hygienic care, this disease is now completely controlled. This was aptly demonstrated by the building of the Panama Canal.

As you know, the French first attempted to build the canal and failed. Fifty thousand men died in the Canal Zone from attacks of malaria and the project was abandoned.

The building of the canal by the United States was made possible by the control of malaria. This was accomplished under the most capable direction of Dr. Gorgas. Were it not for our knowledge of malaria, this canal would never have been completed. With destruction of breeding places of the mosquito, removal of filth and unhygienic surroundings, screening of homes and isolation of infected men, the canal was successfully completed.

Modern civilization and knowledge of medicine have accomplished what Hippocrates and the ancients strove for but failed to do. The story of malaria and mankind serves as one of the most striking examples of progress in the history of the world.

Answers to Health Queries

MRS. E. E. M. Q. — What causes nervousness? I have been nervous for seven years.

A.—Nervousness is caused by a run-down state of health. Try to build up your general health and you will probably benefit generally.

L. E. Q.—Is there any way to reduce the arm between the shoulder and elbow?

A.—Exercise will reduce flabby flesh, but if the arm is large due to muscular development, little can be done. Reducing in general will tend to reduce the arms.

Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

With Return of Junior, Farmhouse Again Hums With Life

"Loosen that tension. Something's going to snap if you don't. And how do you think Junior will feel to see his mother spread out, a tangle of broken springs over the landscape, when he gets here?"

Katherine's soft, laughing voice, with an undertone of seriousness, brought me out of my reverie and so soothing as always, is her presence that my taut nerves relaxed a little.

"That's better," she said, as I put my hand up to clasp the one which rested on my shoulder. "I'll quote you something banal, as a reward. Everything, even a small son's return home, comes to her who waits ——"

"Long enough. I finished rebelliously and then, as if in reproof of my impatience, there was the sound of a familiar motor horn down the road and the household sprang into life. My mother-in-law and my father hurried out to the veranda. Katie's jovous hysterical giggle sounded from the kitchen as she rushed for the door. Jim appeared from the side of the house ready to see to the car and the luggage and Dicky dashed past me down the veranda steps to meet the big car turning in at the farm yard gate. I would have been with him, but Katherine's hand was on my arm with a warning "Careful, dear, you musn't rush around yet," and so it seemed an eternity, though only a second or two before Junior was in my arms, rapturously hugging me and demanding vociferously between kisses:

"Where's that baby?"

I did not answer him for a minute, for Roderick, Dicky's orphaned nephew, a year older than Junior, had also flung himself upon me, and not for the "wealth of the Indies," would I have let him feel that his welcome was any whit less loving and enthusiastic than the one I was according my own small son. But at his echo of Junior's query I took their clinging arms from around my neck and with them ranged, one upon each side of me, led them to the carriage where our baby lay asleep, her tiny hands crumpled beneath her chin, her ridiculous dot of a face partly hidden in her pillow.

"Gee," Junior exclaimed, curiosity, even awe, in his face and voice, and "Gee," Roderick uttered dutifully, adding with an indefinable air of disappointment, "But I thought she'd be bigger, didn't you, Jun?"

Junior bristled, ludicrously.

"She's big enough," he said, with the air of a man resenting an imputation against some prized possession. "You look out, Rod, what you say about her. She's my sister, ain't she, Mums, the one you promised me?"

"But she's my cousin," Roderick protested, hotly. "Auntie Madge told me she'd be and a cousin is just as good as a sister any day. And I guess I can say what I want about my own cousin—I don't mean anything bad," he amended hastily, "but it ain't nothin' to say she might be bigger."

I snatched quickly at the opportunity for switching their belligerent minds to another track. Not now did I wish to deal with a most delicate problem, that of a selfish, arrogant attitude of Junior's toward his cousin which, despite his genuine affection for Roderick, had given me much troubled thought in the months which elapsed between Roderick's coming to us at Christmas time, and his going away with Junior to the delightful home in the Connecticut hills where the Underwoods had cared for them. It was a natural result, of course, of Junior's being an only child for so long. This mite beside me, I reflected, remorsefully, should have come to us when Junior was not yet past the "baby" stage himself. Then we could have trained him to give up gracefully, something which was now a most difficult task to inculcate.

"How many times have I told you both?" I demanded, with a specious air of sternness, "not to say 'ain't' and 'ain't nothin'? I don't believe Aunt Lillian has been very strict with you."

"I deny that aspersion," Harry Underwood's big voice boomed, with a portentous wink at me in recognition of my ruse. "They both had their lickings regular just the same as their meals. Lil used to take 'em on before breakfast and lunch, but she got sort of tired at night, so I did the larruping before dinner, and all the little jobs in between. It's my private opinion that they need one, now. We didn't stop on the road to give it to 'em Come on, kids. Nobody ever shall accuse Pere Underwood of not doing his duty."

He bent down from his tremendous height, picked them up as easily as if they had been kittens, and tucking one under each arm, bore them away, giggling and shrieking shrilly in appreciation of the jest of the big man they adored. But Junior stopped chuckling as he neared the door, and twisting his head toward me, called out: "Mums! How does she 'put my nose out of joint?' A woman at the farm said she would."

"She'll explain that later," Mr. Underwood said hastily. "You must give her time to think it out, for it's a complicated question."

"All right," Junior assented, satisfied, but as the wildly swinging legs of the small boys disappeared through the door, my mother-in-law said, caustically:

"Well, I hope you're satisfied now, Margaret. You see your new fangled ideas haven't changed the situation one mite."

-:- The Beauty Box -:-

By HELEN FOLLETT

An aged woman arrayed in too youthful attire is a sad and pitiable sight. If some women didn't dress so youthfully, they wouldn't look so old. No need of taking to bonnet and shawl. Even that combination is more attractive than rompers and baby hat.

Coiffures are softer, a bit more bouffant, a fashion detail which will prove a consolation to the woman whose plastered-down water wave looks as if it were painted on her scalp. Severity of hairdress is suitable only for exotic beauties with mysterious, slanting eyes. They can get away with sleek tresses. Beau-catchers before the ears are attractive to some types, and little curly-cues, thin and soft, that decorate the noble, feminine brow, point the way toward hirsute fluff.

Muscles of the mouth lengthen and contract, so the surface of the lips have a crepe-like quality. That is why any coloring substance should be applied when the lips are stretched flat. No doubt that a bit of rouge makes the teeth look whiter, lends a certain enchantment. But it charms only when it is used with such skill that it deceives the eye and does not proclaim to the curious public that it is makeshift. Gals of 1931 are soft-pedaling on factory lip-blushes.

Caps made of tape should be worn during sleep by little children whose ears are stand-outish. Plastic surgeons are able to tack down the ears of adults, forcing them to stick close to the head where they rightly belong.

Health is fashionable. It is the one thing you like to hear a woman brag about. That top-of-the-morning look is something you can't buy at the beauty shop by the jugful. No need of worrying about petticoats and corsets reviving the the fainting, die-away Victorian type. That silly old gal is gone for good and ave. She must have bored her swains with her inertia. One sees her after the evening of languid courtship trailing into the pantry, raiding the place for leftovers from dinner. After which she probably cast off her 18-inch stays with a groan of relief. The world must have been a horrible place for a woman then.

Good taste is a guardian angel that stands behind a woman and whispers words of wisdom in her ears. Blessed with taste a woman knows instinctively and intuitively what frocks to select for her wardrobe. Her sartorial draperies are distinctive, yet they never overshadow her personality. They are, as it were, a part of herself, in harmony with her character and her spirit. As she knows she is beautifully and appropriately dressed she enjoys a sense of well-being, a feeling of satisfaction.

Mothers' Rights

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

I think there is nothing which makes life harder when a child grows up and has gone out to fend for himself, than to have had a mother who has never demanded her rights as a human being and an individual.

Strangers aren't going to postpone engagements to suit that grown child's convenience, they aren't going to frantically press gowns and pick up scattered clothing after the youngster has gone his way to theater or party. Strangers are going to take their rights, just as mother should exact hers from the time her child is a baby.

You probably can name a dozen mothers who have grown dowdy looking, mentally rusty during the first three or four years of their child's life. And many times the habit gets so firmly established that mother just steps off the pedestal for good and continues to be a drudge for her family.

You mothers have the weighty responsibility of doing your level best to create and keep a healthy, happy child, but health and happiness can still be maintained if you insist upon a few hours a day to talk with people of your own age and interests.

The babies who howl when mother steps out of the front door will develop into adolescents who will ask mother and dad to stay at home after they'd planned to go somewhere.

There is a family which boasts an adolescent girl and a 4-year-old. The parents feel they cannot afford a servant to stay all the week with them, so either the high school girl or dad and mother have to stay at home. In the martyrdom of the parents, trying to let the grown girl have as much fun as possible, it has turned out that dad and mother stay at home every evening. This is not only unfair to them but to the girl, who must sometime learn to consider others than herself.

An understanding in families that certain nights are reserved for mother and father to have their friends or to go to the theater, etc., would make for a workable solution of this problem. Mothers, particularly, have a right to other contacts than those made in the home. I say "mother particularly," because father in the natural course of the day's work gets fresh, different ideas from business contacts, while mother is apt to jog along in the same narrow rut.

Household Hints

Do you wash pantry shelves with a hot solution of alum water? It will drive away all roaches and insects.

If you have a piece of furniture that loses its castor each time it is moved, bind the castor in with a strip of adhesive tape. It takes just a little protection to prevent its slipping out.

To remove grease spots from tablecloths, coats, trousers, etc., saturate them with turpentine; then sandwich the article between two pieces of blotting paper and press a hot iron over the damaged part for a few minutes.

Look over the oven before using it and clean out any specks that may have dropped from the last using. These burned over particles cause a nasty smoke to fill the room and oven if not cleaned out before the oven is started again.

It is economy to have your paring and carving knives of good steel so they can be kept very sharp. A dull knife is wasteful as it hacks at the vegetables or meat instead of cutting even, economical slices.

One of the printed oilcloth table cloths and colored paper napkins will help out wonderfully at luncheon when just the kiddies are home with mother, and will prove an immense saving on laundering if used for breakfast and lunch, using linen just for the dinner table during the warm weather.

When putting away leftovers in the refrigerator, particularly in the warm weather, gather them together on top of the ice box and when you open the door put them all away at the same time. The fewer times you open the refrigerator doors, the better your ice will keep and colder your box will be.

New Friend of Kitty Says She Will Find Her a 'Sugar Daddy'

CHAPTER III.

To my horror Carl Austin was so drunk that he slumped back in his chair and began to curse me as he patted his bleeding lips with a napkin.

"Get that," he said, with an oath, "you haven't got any more job than a rabbit—I mean it!"

It created considerable excitement, but our waiter came along and then the hostess.

"Fresh guy?" she asked me, in a low voice.

I nodded.

"Any use for him?"

"Not in the least."

"One of those cheap bums who thinks he owns a girl if he spends a couple of finnifs on her, eh?"

The hostess was still smiling and talking low as if it were just a friendly party.

The pretty little hostess made some sign to the waiter and just as he started to tell me once more that I was fired they took him out.

"As soon as he's gone," I said, "I'll go. I didn't know he was like that."

"Wait, Jacques will be back with taxi money."

I protested indignantly but she laughed. "It's no charity, dearie; we use painless extraction in a case like this but the gent has to part with taxi money."

If I had had any affection for Carl Austin I suppose it would have been a great shock to me but I only liked to go out with him for a show or a little dancing. The shock, however, was in what he said about firing me. I like my work, and I knew that he could make enough trouble in a short while to get me fired.

SOUND ADVICE

I went over to see Molly Parsons Sunday afternoon. She was just getting ready to go out with some boy friend and wanted me to come along, but I wouldn't make a threesome. I told her all about what had happened.

"That's what you get for going out with cheap skates—life is too short for that, Kit—pick the rich boys. But here's what I'd do, get in early tomorrow and go and see Mr. Thornton. He thinks you are just the cat's pajamas anyway. Tell him what happened."

Molly's advice was good.

I was waiting for Mr. Thornton at the door to his little office when he got in Monday. I told him the whole thing.

"I'm doing this because I know Austin will begin making

Synopsis

Peter Thompson adores her, but she cannot see being a poor man's slave. She is put at the men's toilet articles counter because of her attractiveness, and goes out a lot with Carl Austin, a floor-walker, until he drinks too much one night and insults her. When Kitty slaps his face he tells her she is fired.

He was born in Pittsburgh and was a graduate of Shady Side Academy and Washington and Jefferson College. During the war he was an inspector of ordnance in this district with the rank of major. He was a member of the Sixth Presbyterian Church, the Pittsburgh Athletic Club, the Rotary Club and the Pittsburgh Country Club. He also was a director of the Automobile Dealers' Association of Pittsburgh. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Anne M. Mawhinney Armstrong; a son, Carter; two daughters, Anne Marie and Dorothy Armstrong; his mother, Mrs. James B. Armstrong, and two brothers, George and James B. Armstrong, all of Pittsburgh.

CUT IN COTTON ACREAGE SEEN

NEW YORK, June 27.—Preliminary estimate of cotton acreage prepared by representatives of R. G. Dun & Co., at important centers in the cotton belt of the United States, indicates an area planted to cotton for this year's crop of 41,038,000 acres. This is a decrease of 10.4 per cent from the 45,815,000 acres planted to cotton last year. The above figures for the current year are the lowest for any year since 1923.

The reduction this year varies considerably in different districts. Peculiar conditions have caused a small change in some sections. The bulk of area devoted to increased planting of food and feed crops has come from land unused last season or the bringing in of new lands. One explanation is that there has been little inducement offered to try other crops, as all prices have been so low. Cotton offered is as good a prospect as any.

Major effort is being made to reduce the cost of production, and thus far with success. Fertilizers were bought very sparingly and top-dressing of the soil later will be done to a very small extent as financial conditions and prospects were not favorable. Because so little moisture was received last season, it is believed that in many sections leftover strength of fertilizers used will go far in helping offset non-use this season.

DISABLED VETS ELECT HEAD

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., June 27.—(AP.)—E. C. Babcock, of Washington, assistant secretary of the United States Civil Service Commission and commander of the Department of District of Columbia D. A. V., yesterday was elected national commander of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War at their eleventh annual national convention, in this city. He succeeds H. H. Weiner, of Chicago. The convention elected to meet in San Diego, Cal., in 1932.

The veterans voted to ask Congress to designate Armistice Day as a national holiday and to require registration of all American citizens and aliens with a view to determining the names of aliens who are in this country illegally and are supplanting American citizens in various fields of employment.

Columbia-Jersey In Gas Agreement

NEW YORK, June 27.—Representatives of Columbia Gas and Electric Corporation and the Lycoming Natural Gas Company, a Standard Oil of New Jersey subsidiary, are reported to be discussing arrangements which would insure the development along economically constructive lines of the recently-discovered natural gas areas in Northeastern Pennsylvania and Southwestern New York. Completion of such plans would be a helpful step in the ultimate program involving the supply of natural gas to the markets immediately available to those fields.

Reichsbank Gold Arrives in N. Y.

NEW YORK, June 27.—Gold from Germany totaling $14,600,000 arrived on the liner New York. It was sent by the Reichsbank to the Federal Reserve Bank to be used in strengthening the mark. Squads of police stood guard as the 581 wooden boxes containing the precious metal were loaded into armored cars at the pier.

Bendix Perfects 3 New Products

CHICAGO, June 27.—Bendix Aviation Corporation has perfected and shortly will introduce three new products for the automotive trade, which will include a free wheeling device, a new vacuum tank and a chassis lubricating system.

INTERNATIONAL SHOE OUTPUT EXPANDING

Current Production at Best Rate in 12 Months; Economies Aid Earnings

NEW YORK, June 27.—Production of shoes by International Shoe Corporation currently is averaging 186,000 pairs daily, the largest in more than a year, and with indications that a further stepping-up in output will be effected.

Since December 1, 1930, orders received by the company have shown an increase of more than 12,000 pairs per day over the similar period of last year. This is interpreted as showing a more satisfactory condition and healthier outlook among retailers than is commonly accepted.

The operations of International's eastern houses currently are at the best level in eight years, with practically all stocks cleaned up.

BACKLOG INCREASED

Orders on hand in this division are sufficient to warrant capacity production of eastern plants until September 1, with good sized new business in sight. Sales of sport shoes have been extremely heavy.

Despite reductions in shoe prices, International has been instituting economies in operations. Its best year on operating profit was that ended November 30, 1927, when it realized $20,478,632, or 16.4 per cent, on a sales volume of $124,306,333. Since that time the operating profit, in line with lower prices, has shown a slight reduction, although the company continues to be the lowest cost producer of shoes in this country.

1929 RECORD YEAR

Its largest sales volume was attained in 1929, and amounted to $132,110,130 on which it realized an operating profit of $17,623,053, equal to 13.3 per cent. Sales volume last year, in reflection of additional price cuts, amounted to $102,393,618, and in face of this diminution, the company maintained its operating ratio practically unchanged from 1929.

Its best year on net income was that ended November 30, 1927, when $17,698,457 was realized after all charges, equal to $4.55 a share on the 3,760,000 shares of no par common stock outstanding, deduction being made for preferred dividends. In 1930 net amounted to $12,874,104, equal to $3.26 a share on common stock.

New Bond Offerings Show Sharp Rise

NEW YORK, June 27.—New bond offerings during the week ended June 26 totaled $187,759,000, comparing with $87,265,000 last week and $90,461,500 in the same week in 1930.

DAILY SHORT STORY

Professor Instrumental in Success of Author

Hearts and Dollars

(All names of characters in this story are fictitious.)

"M-m-m-m-m, so that's it, eh? 'Hearts and Dollars'—well, for a novel title that's some generality, might mean any sort of a plot."

Dane Cook was in Hartman's Book Shop with young Prof. Arnold.

They lived at The Elms, a family boarding house of considerable pretense. They were interested in this novel, just off the press, because it was written by Lora Vickman, and Miss Vickman was also a dweller at The Elms.

"Not a bad title," Prof. Arnold remarked, "and I shall add one to the sales of the first edition. He picked up the copy in its bright jacket of a red heart across which blazed a golden dollar mark.

"Why waste—oh well, never mind, professor," Dane said, hesitating about finishing what he had started out to say.

"I'm curious, and Miss Vickman is an interesting young lady. I suppose you got an advance copy from the book reviewer's desk at the office, didn't you?"

Dane Cook was one of the copy editors on a morning newspaper.

These books were arranged on a high pyramid, a sort of double display counter running down the length of the book shop.

OVERHEARS REMARKS

Almost opposite Dane Cook and Prof. Arnold, on the other side of this high counter, and quite unseen by them, stood the author of this fresh-from-the-press first novel, Miss Lora Vickman.

She had heard all they said, and recognized their voices.

"No," Dane Cook replied, "I haven't seen the novel in the office. In fact I hadn't learned what the title was to be. Lora had several in mind. But I have read the story—in manuscript form. Lora asked me to go over it—I suppose because I'm a copy editor."

"Well, if you've read it, Cook, keep the plot to yourself. I want to enjoy it."

"Enjoy?" Dane spoke lightly. "Scarcely the word. Rather disappointing. Fact is, it's going to be a flop—not enough to it."

"At least there's more to it than any novel we have had printed—since we yet have the first one to write."

"Lora's a sweet kid, Professor, really a mighty swell girl, but I've got a hunch that she will do better in some other line. The story is awfully light—it won't go through the first 20,000 copies."

"Too bad, if true. Novels are a great deal like so many other things in life—you can't be too sure about them."

"Oh well, read it and let me know what you think."

"Very well."

"You'll agree with me, all right, Professor."

"Perhaps my judgment will be worth little, Cook, you see my line is mathematics and mathematicians are supposed to have no literary judgment whatever—or literary ability, for that matter."

DIDN'T TELL HER

"Nonsense," Dane Cook said, with a laugh, "of course you can tell when you read it, whether it's literature or just another book. My opinion is that it is just another book."

"Did you tell Miss Vickman so, after she asked you to read it?"

"Of course not—that's a thankless thing to do. I told her to go ahead with it. These new writers think every story they do is a brain child."

"That was unfair. Over at college if a student does not do good work we tell them so."

"This is different. I tell you what I'll do, I'll bet you won't have the nerve to tell Lora what you think of her novel, what you honestly think, in front of me."

"You would be foolish to make a bet like that, Cook, because that is what I shall do, if she chances to ask me."

The young professor took his change and the copy of "Hearts and Dollars" by Lora Vickman and went out of the bookshop with Dane Cook.

Lora Vickman, standing on the other side of the high pyramid counter of books, remained motionless. But there were red spots in her cheeks and one couldn't say for certain by her eyes whether they would flash with anger or become moist with tears.

Lora Vickman's vocation was that of clerk in a big legal firm. This writing of a novel was an avocation with her, but her dreams were all of being able, some day, to give up her vocation of legal clerking and making it that of a novelist.

She had said little at The Elms about the novel.

Dane Cook had only been partly right when he told Prof. Arnold that Lora had asked him to read her manuscript because he was a copy editor. Lora had become rather interested in Dane. He was good-looking and pleasant, and she wasn't sure but what she might get to be very fond of him. A girl has to become acquainted, first.

In Lora's room were the six copies, sent to her by her publisher. She had intended to autograph a copy and give it to Dane Cook, but now she hesitated about doing this.

Finally she decided to give him a copy. She wrote in this copy:

To Dane Cook, who spoke words of encouragement.
Even the false dawn is roseate.
Lora Wickman.

Prof. Arnold had multiple duties and put aside "Hearts and Dollars" until such time, after going over examination papers, as he could read it.

Meanwhile, various book reviewers gave the novel either brief mention, with faint praise, or went to some length about it in an effort to roast it in an attempt to be witty.

This boarding house, The Elms, had been an old family mansion in its day. There were spacious grounds about the place, with a lawn running down to the river at the rear, where were plentiful trees, shrubs, paths and benches.

Prof. Arnold often went down this rear lawn to stroll about along the river and smoke, and to think his thoughts.

One Sunday forenoon he was strolling down by the river, his mind busy with thoughts of the coming college year and the possibilities he would have of being appointed to a chair, thus taking him a step higher in his profession.

PROFESSOR'S OPINION

He thought that he heard some sobbing—quiet, pitiful little sobs. He investigated.

He had been right. Lora Vickman was hidden behind the great mulberry shrub, on a bench. Scattered about her were several Sunday newspapers.

Prof. Arnold saw two book review sections and knew at once what the trouble was.

Miss Vickman, hearing him coming, had powdered her nose, wiped her eyes and was leaning back grinning inanely at a comic page.

"Ah, good morning, Miss Vickman, how is our authoress this morning?"

"Oh, good morning, Professor—authoress? I—I'm afraid you fla—flatter me—"

It was no use, she couldn't keep back the sobs.

"Well, well, if your very first novel makes you feel so downcast, imagine what a mass of melancholy you will be when you have a dozen best-sellers to your credit."

Lora sat right up and stared at him.

"You're a brick, professor—that was sweet of you, but look?"

She showed him some of the reviews that roasted her little maiden effort.

He comforted her and said that before dinner that day he would finish reading her novel.

He did.

At the dinner table Lora proved that she had nerve. Dane Cook was there. Lora looked over at the professor.

"What do you think of 'Hearts and Dollars?'" she asked, remembering what she had overheard in the book shop.

Cook grinned and nudged the young professor.

"I think that it will have an excellent sale—I think the sales will begin to increase as soon as the best of all advertising can get under way—word-of-mouth advertising from one who has read it to a friend who has not."

"Oh, come now, I wanted your honest opinion," Lora said, blushing because she believed he was trying to be nice to her.

"That is my honest opinion."

A few weeks passed. Lora Vickman seemed to be much happier.

A CLEVER SCHEME

A few more weeks and Prof. Arnold pointed out to Dane Cook some of the advertising in the Sunday book sections of the papers by the publishers of "Hearts and Dollars."

The book had gone into its fourth edition.

Prof. Arnold spoke of it at dinner that day.

"Yes, it is amazing, Professor—simply amazing. My publishers have been sending in reports. The most amazing thing is that you foretold that this would happen."

After the Sunday dinner Lora and the professor strolled down by the river bank. Lora told him about her plans for a second novel. She wanted his advice.

Through the summer he helped her with her second novel. And in the fall, when he was appointed to a chair at the college, he married Lora.

Dane Cook sent them a handsome present.

Right after they had set up housekeeping Cook happened to run across the professor in a tobacco shop. He grinned and pulled out a newspaper clipping, a small advertisement.

"Professor, you're a wonder," Cook cried, "that was sure a clever stunt and it did the trick!"

Prof. Arnold glanced at the clipping and his face reddened.

"If you ever tell her about it, Cook," he said, "your paper will need a new copy editor. But it certainly did swell the sales, as soon as I had it put in a score of newspapers around the country."

This is what Prof. Arnold had put in the papers:

YOUNG MILLIONAIRE, good looking, active, wants to meet a girl like the heroine of Lora Vickman's novel, "Hearts and Dollars." Object, matrimony. X-7.

JUST PLAYING AROUND -:- By Lewis Allen Browne

complaints about me, Mr. Thornton," I explained.

"Don't worry, Miss Mason—only remember this, sporting is for those who can afford it. We working people cannot expect to be playing around all the time. Austin couldn't afford the price and you can't afford to waste your health with late hours and drinking, or to endanger your reputation."

"Thank you," I said, demurely. But I was thinking he was an awful prune. As if I could be expected to settle down like some pickle-faced old spinster.

"It is because I take an interest in you," he added.

I didn't laugh, but I wanted to. Mr. Thornton was my idea of nothing to write home about.

Carl Austin marched up and down the shop aisle that day as if I didn't exist. Molly grinned at him every time he passed but I pretended to see right through him. Late in the afternoon, however, he came and looked back of the counter.

"This is slovenly—keep it neat or I shall have to report you," he snapped.

"You needn't bother, I'll tell Mr. Thornton what you said," I answered.

Then I gave him my sweetest smile.

He stared for a moment and walked away. He was back in another minute.

"There is no reason to do that, Miss Mason—no need to bother Mr. Thornton with such petty things."

"Then keep away from him because you are about the pettiest thing I could name if I tried to think hard for seven years."

Again I smiled at him.

He leaned over and scowled at me.

"I'll go above Thornton," he growled.

"I'll tell him you said so."

Once more the smile.

He hurried away but was waiting for me when I got to the sidewalk. I tried to pass him but he stopped me.

"Isn't there any way I can apologize, Miss Mason?"

"Any way you wish. If you hadn't called me down about the floor back counter I would never have remembered that you existed."

"Can't we be friends?"

"We don't have to be enemies, let's let it go at that, Mr. Austin," I said.

He smiled and extended his hand, but I hurried on, pretending not to see it.

Dolly Hawkins caught up with me and took my arm. This was a surprise. Dolly had charge of the very expensive perfumes just below Molly's counter. She was always dressed beautifully and expensively and she had seemed terribly snooty.

I had envied her her clothes and jewelry but never tried to be chummy with her.

"Kitty, you were an awful fool Saturday night," she said.

"Why, what do you know about—about—that?" I stammered.

"I was there with my sugar daddy. You are too darn good looking to waste your time on cheap floor-walkers. You can pick the rich ones any time."

"I don't go out much," I protested.

FORM FRIENDSHIP

"That's your own fault. I'll have to find a nice sugar daddy for you and show you what it is to go out wth real sports. You, with that gorgeous taffy hair of yours, and me, with my jet black mop, would make a swell pair, regular foils."

"I suppose so. If I only knew any nice men like that—decent ones, you know what I mean."

"Sure, sure—leave it to me, got to go now," Dolly cried.

I thought she was going down into the subway with me, but instead I saw a man get out of the niftiest car at the curb and help Dolly in. Dolly waved at me and smiled. The man lifted his hat. He was about 40, he looked like a swell. He said something to the chauffeur, looked back at me and waved his hand and I could see that he was asking Dolly about me.

Molly came along in time to see Dolly get into the car.

"So that explains Miss Snooty's swell scenery and heavy jewelry," Molly said.

"Oh, she isn't snooty, she's really lovely, Molly. Believe you me, if she can get me a sugar daddy like that one I won't cry my eyes out!"

"Help!" Molly cried, "did she promise you a sugar daddy?"

"Why, yes, in a sort of way."

"Oh for th' love of frankfurters, ring me in," she begged.

I laughed at her but made no promise. I wondered if pretty Dolly Hawkins really meant what she said.

Dolly was friendly with me after that and a few days later at luncheon she said. "Kit, get yourself a dress of that new shade of blue—with your hair and eyes you'll be a knockout. Go ahead and I'll ring you in on a party."

"All right," I promised.

I had been planning on something entirely different for a new dress but I took her advice. My sister Cora had a natural gift for making little dresses. She could copy anything. And so she made the dress for me and I saved enough money for slippers and hose to match.

"I've got the dress," I told Dolly, when it was finished.

To my surprise she came home with me and made me put it on.

KITTY SURPRISED

"My brother is having a first wedding anniversary party next Saturday, Kit—you must come along," she said.

I promised.

When Dolly had gone Cora remarked that it was nice to make such friends in the store, and especially nice to have them invite me to a family party like that.

I was delighted. According to instructions I got to Dolly's home about 10 o'clock. I thought it was rather late, but, of course, wouldn't say anything.

To my surprise it was a beautiful little apartment, with uniformed doorman, elevator men and the like.

My second surprise was when I went in and didn't see a soul except Dolly.

"My dear," I cried, "what happened? Is your brother's anniversary party all off?"

Dolly began to laugh.

"Oh, you sweet, droll child," she cried. "Didn't you know that was all bunk? I said that so your folks wouldn't object to your going out."

"But—but what is it, then?"

She led me to a big mirror and stood beside me. Her gown was corn yellow, and with her black hair she looked gorgeous.

"Didn't I tell you—don't we make a knockout pair?" Dolly cried.

I had to admit it.

"But what's up, Dolly?"

"M-m-m, babe! Just you wait——"

"There they are now, and I've got the swellest sugar daddy for you. He's just made of money!"

She ran to open the door.

Who is the sugar daddy Dolly had picked for Kitty? Read Monday's engrossing installment.

Decent City Government

It Can Be Had Only If the Citizens Are Eternally On Guard—Comment On Local News.

John D. Houston, whose letter to City Council complaining that a contract had been awarded to a high bidder led to the grand jury's investigation of the Department of Supplies, with its indictment of Mayor Kline, gives the newspapers much of the credit for the municipal housecleaning. It is the simple truth that the newspapers demanded exposure of the mess long before any of the public officials or civic bodies called for an inquiry.

City Council refused to investigate, and in the early stages of the agitation neither Controller Kerr nor District Attorney Park showed any enthusiasm for a housecleaning. It was only after the League of Women Voters and a hastily organized Citizens' Committee joined in the newspapers' demand that official cognizance was taken of the mess. All of which indicates the need of a permanent Citizens' Committee to keep strict watch on municipal affairs.

Pittsburgh had some years ago an organization called the Voters' League, which, while not faultless, did excellent work in exposing corruption in the municipal government. The Citizens' League, organized, largely by ministers, to fight vice, had a less creditable record, because of its unhappy choice of an investigator. We now have nothing of the sort, yet the need is as great as it ever was.

Long years of experience have shown decent municipal government cannot be expected unless the citizens are eternally on guard. Unless constantly watched, it seems, there are always to be found officeholders here and there who cannot resist the opportunities their offices afford to plunder the taxpayers.

Since, with few exceptions, all the officeholders in both the city and county governments usually are members of the same political machine, there are personal relationships among them that make it virtually out of the question to expect the executive of one department to take the initiative in exposing wrongdoing in another, who is probably his friend. There must be prodding from the outside to enforce action.

The people of New York City once sought through the creation of an official known as the Commissioner of Accounts to keep check on the manner in which their officeholders were performing their duties. But the trouble with such a system is that the political machines put their own members into the investigative office. It is better to have the investigations made by persons entirely free from political influence.

While the newspapers can and do render good service in maintaining surveillance over the official conduct of government officeholders, they cannot be expected to assume the whole responsibility of seeing that the city administration is not remiss in any particular. It is for the citizens to keep watch also through some such organization as has been suggested.

The right way to obtain good government is, of course, to elect to office none but men and women of the highest integrity and ability. It is futile to look for officeholders of such a character so long as the voters permit a few selfish political bosses to dictate party nominations. The way to eliminate dishonesty and incompetency is to persuade the citizens who object to dishonesty and incompetency to take an active part in politics themselves.

A Homewood confectioner complains that after he had been promised a license to sell fireworks it was refused him. Which is a reminder of the North Side dealer who, on applying for a permit last year, was told to see his Republican ward chairman. All this irritation over fireworks permits would have been avoided if "the Mayor's majority" in Council had heeded public sentiment and prohibited the sale of the dangerous playthings.

*The Sun-Telegraph will publish in the "Remem*ber?" department of the Gravure Section tomorrow an enlarged reproduction of a photograph showing the havoc wrought by a Fourth of July fire on the North Side in 1874. Several blocks were laid in ruins by the flames. It calls attention to the need of extreme caution while playing with fireworks.

A fireworks accident is already reported. If the police will not prevent a premature pyrotechnical celebration of the Fourth, parents should see to it that children's use of explosives is confined to Independence Day. Dr. C. B. Maits, director of public health, warns all parents, by the way, to take children injured by fireworks to a physician at once for prophylactic treatment against lockjaw.

There has been consolation for the tremendous showers that Pittsburgh has experienced lately in the thought that heavy precipitation was preferable to the drought from which we suffered last year. In view, however, of the damage that was inflicted by yesterday's storm the question as to which kind of weather is best for the city is, perhaps, debatable.

The Sun-Telegraph is going to make it easier to bear the heat tomorrow. There will be a great variety of light summer reading and interesting pictures to make one forget the temperature. The first three installments of "Just Playing Around" are to be reprinted for the benefit of those who missed the opening chapters of this delightful serial story of life and love in a big city.

Director Lang, of the Department of Public Works, is entitled to a word of appreciation for his activity in arranging for Sunday movies and band concerts in the parks. It is gratifying that at the same time he has insisted on genuine competitive bidding on the contract to supply the city with talkie apparatus. The free Sunday screen shows are one of the best things the Kline administration has given Pittsburgh.

Gov. Pinchot has vetoed the Sowers bill which was designed to break up the practice of certain police authorities of refusing to allow prisoners unable to furnish bail to communicate with their friends. It was a genuine evil that the Legislature sought to correct through this measure—an evil that often crops up in Pittsburgh—and it is gratifying that Gov. Pinchot admitted it was an evil and needed correction. He vetoed the bill because he objected to the way in which the remedy was to be applied.

'He Hath Put Down The Mighty'

Perhaps They Will Climb Up Again.

SPAIN'S KING AND QUEEN AS THEY WERE.

Men that lose jobs and worry, speculators that dropped accumulated wealth and worry, are not the only human beings that have "ups and downs." Royalty has "ups and downs," plenty of them, and, of late years, the "downs" have been most numerous.

The picture above shows King Alfonso, of Spain, and his Queen, Ena, a royal British princess, in the days of their grandeur. They are seen in a stage coach in which they rode on state occasions through the streets of Madrid, the population cheering.

The population of Spain cheers for royalty no longer. It has driven out the King and Queen, their children, the other royalties and many of the grandees. It has torn down, burned and looted churches and monasteries, including the headquarters of the Jesuit priests, in many Spanish cities; it has confiscated fortunes, and has turned out of Spain as an exile the distinguished cardinal representing the Pope.

Changes come suddenly in this world, as the lower picture in this column shows. There you see Queen Ena, in her days of misfortune, hurriedly leaving Spain, and stopping in a rather desolate spot to bid goodbye to a few of her dearest friends—gentlemen and ladies of the court.

She hurried from Madrid to the "Escurial, about 30 miles from the capital. There she was joined by her children, and together they visited sadly (and perhaps for the last time) the royal tombs in the Escurial monastery."

All of them are exiled now. The Queen's sorrow is seen in her face. Poor Queen Ena is to be pitied. Her marriage was a matter of diplomacy. She had one child after another, and several of them caused her great anxiety. She would have been a happier woman had she not been of royal blood, born to marry in accordance with the wishes of others.

An everyday English husband, with a little house in the country, might have made her a happier woman.

The King of Spain is admired for his "sportsmanlike" conduct under difficulties. Several attempts have been made to assassinate him. He smiles through all of them, as he smiles now cheerfully in exile.

"He hath put down the mighty, He hath lifted up the humble."

In this case "the humble" now ruling Spain appear not to be agreeing too well among themselves. Possibly the mighty, temporarily put down, will climb up again. King Alfonso with his wife may live to sit back once more on the soft cushions of the royal coach.

This is Spain's third attempt at a republic. Being a republic ourselves, we are bound to hope that the attempt will succeed. But we are NOT compelled to bet on it.

After a year or two of matrimony most women can see right through their husbands without looking at them—and most men can look right through their wives without seeing them.

Don't blame women for the terrible hats they are wearing. Hats are like husbands, you know. A girl doesn't choose them; she merely ACCEPTS them when under hypnotic influence.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. MUNDY

You are not fooling anyone when you brag about your good habits.

Everyone knows that the one who alludes to his own virtues has something to cover up.

It is well to beware of the one who seeks to establish himself as a bit better than the ordinary run of people.

Law abiding persons are much alike—exemplary in some ways and weak in others, according to their temperament.

But, knowing his weakness, the law abiding citizen is not going around proclaiming his good citizenship.

He knows that he needs more censure for the times he fails in good citizenship than he does praise.

It is the fellow with some personal desire who calls attention to the commendable things that he has done.

The more perfect a man, the less he has to say about it.

It is the one who has an object that calls attention to the commendable things that he has done or accomplished.

If you are given to self-laudation you have established the fact that there is something wrong with you, and someone is going to investigate.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, June 27.—Purely personal piffle: It annoys my wife for me to rush ahead in a crowd. When I do she shouts: "Wait Pappy!" and I turn red as a beet. I've often longed to run naked in a heavy rain. I never saw a drunken poet. My favorite feminine name is Jane. Masculine Douglas.

The neatest signature I know is that of J. Wade McGrath, a hotel owner. The most rugged people I ever met are from the state of Washington, the most congenial from Texas. There is an especial charm in a Cape Cod accent. I never attended a house party.

No one ever made me cry in the theater like Margaret Illington in "Kindling." The biggest laugh was when Ed Wynn, as a waiter, brought a horse to a patron who said he was hungry enough to "eat a horse." I used to stain my fingers with iodine to suggest a cigaret fiend.

I do not feel rude staring at a beautiful lady. To my notion it is a compliment. Someone reading my newspapers first completely spoil them for me. Letters in which I expect unpleasant news are left unopened for days. For a long time I thought Defense d'Affiche signs in Paris indicated armories.

I like to thread a needle and draw pictures on frosty window panes. Once I swallowed an overcoat button. Margola Gilmore's name to me suggests a mouth wash. Like the noise I make when I gargle. I like to sop catsup in hot rolls and melt ice cream with my spoon.

Invariably I hook my foot in something when I look out a high window. I have never visited Milwaukee. The only security I have worth original value is a $500 Liberty bond. The most supremely aristocratic and intellectual spot I ever saw was The Hague. I never had a hang-nail.

I can watch swans in a pond for hours. When anyone asks if I have seen a certain play I say I have whether so or not. The only football game I ever saw was in St. Louis 25 years ago. A tackle suffered a broken back. I am never disappointed reading a widely discussed book.

I carry about $50 all the time and keep small change in my right outside coat pocket. The man I think gets the most fun out of life of all close friends is Frazier Hunt. My wife has never been able to cure me of accenting "po" in policeman. My greatest disillusionments came from meeting literary lions I long admired. I am unable to work if I know everyone else has left the house.

Ferns are to me just so many weeds. About twice a year I dream of hearing the cry "All ashore that's going ashore!" and find I'm bound hand and foot. I once sneaked up to a fellow gazing at snakes in the Cincinnati zoo, pinched his leg and hissed. I thought it someone I knew. When they brought me to I discovered he was a total stranger. I look the other way when horses jump hurdles.

The only articles I remember in strange homes are beautiful lamps. I keep a carton of chewing gum on my desk at all times. I am gallant among elderly people but abrupt among young folk. I never read Chaucer and go into a rage if I have to leave a meal to answer the phone. I always expect a girl named Margaret to be old fashioned.

* * *

When I went to Dayton, O., as a cub reporter I talked through my nose and tried to walk like George M. Cohan. Also I gave a bell hop 50 cents to page me while dining with a vaudeville actress at the Gibson in Cincinnati. I am pie footed. I like to walk in the Gramercy Park section at twilight and along the Bowery around midnight.

* * *

I think Alfred Freuh, born in Lima, O., is America's grandest caricaturist. I never miss movies of wild animals and invariably call a ramp a vamp. My favorite figure in history is Napoleon and the most entertaining modern author is Somerset Maugham. No place like Dinty Moore's for boiled potatoes in jackets.

* * *

The meal I remember best was a breakfast of thin pork chops fried with apple rings at a country inn in the Berkshires. I am not a balanced conversationalist. I either talk too much or sit glum. If my wife would let me I would sport a crushed fly mustache. And I've always wanted to wear one of those Sherlock Holmes deer-stalking caps.

THE GREENWICH SYSTEM

By Archibald Henderson

Ever since the last quarter of the seventeenth century, when John Flamsteed, the first Astronomer Royal, built the little observatory at Greenwich, the very name Greenwich has stood for important things in the world of science. This first little observatory cost but 520 pounds, the money being raised from the sale of spoiled gunpowder. It was really only a small dwelling house with an upper room for use as an observatory. The materials came from a gatehouse of the Tower of London, recently torn down, and the bricks from old Tilbury Fort. Flamsteed's name is still commemorated in the dwelling-house of the Astronomer Royal, which is called Flamsteed House.

The observations which Flamsteed had made over a long period of years were published prematurely, against Flamsteed's wishes. They had not been adequately checked and were found to be full of errors. Flamsteed himself destroyed three-fourths of the copies printed. He died in 1719, presumably embittered and disappointed.

The man who succeeded him was Edmund Halley, whose name is known in the history of astronomy. It is well known that the brilliant Halley, a member of the Royal Society, was directly responsible for the publication of Sir Isaac Newton's Principia. When Halley was appointed Astronomer Royal, he found an observatory empty of instruments. Flamsteed's widow having removed all her husband's property. By means of a grant from the government Halley constructed a transit instrument and a large quadrant, still preserved. Halley is chiefly remembered for his memorable studies of the famous comet, the return of which he accurately predicted.

The next Astronomer Royal was James Bradley, a scientist of originality and power. He was particularly interested in determining the distance of the sun from the earth, and with considerable accuracy established the minimum distance as about 94,000,000 miles. Bradley's greatest contribution to science was the discovery of the principle known as "aberration of light." Up to 1667 it had been generally believed that the velocity of light was infinite, but Roemer, a Danish astronomer, made a rough approximation of the velocity of light. Knowing that the velocity of light is finite, Bradley was able to explain the phenomenon of "aberration," which is the apparent alteration in the position of a fixed star, arising from the motion of the earth in its orbit, combined with the time taken for light to travel. Bradley moreover did an immense amount of astronomical work of high value.

Bradley was succeeded as Astronomer Royal by Nevil Maskelyne, the first man to measure the earth. This he did in 1774 in Scotland, his method being to measure the deviation of a plumb-line from the vertical by the attraction of the mountain in Schiehallion. He was the first man to publish the long-desired Nautical Almanac. His successor was John Pond, who made no conspicuous scientific discoveries, but was noted for the accuracy of his observations.

Greenwich Observatory as it is today is largely due to the organizing spirit of George Airy. He practically rebuilt it, installed new telescopes, and introduced the use of photography. The accuracy of the instruments for the determination of time at Greenwich today is little short of miraculous. Any error of as much as a two-hundredth of a second is automatically corrected. The Greenwich system for determining geographical positions on sea or land is unrivalled.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

Hate to make up your mind, don't you?

Always did hate to. Gets you all worked up. Sometimes you'll worry yourself almost sick, for days, just because you know you've got to decide something. Lots of times you do things you're actually ashamed of . . . give in when you know you shouldn't . . . in order to get out of making a decision. And lately it has been getting worse. Seems as if it took you hours to decide which was the right thing to do . . . and you're worn out, afterward.

"But it's no use their feeling that way," you sigh. "I just can't make my mind up quick, like some folks. I'm naturally slow—I was born that way and I can't change."

You're wrong, stranger. You've grown that way but you weren't born that way. You were born with a flexible, adjustable mind just as you were born with a flexible, adjustable body. Your mind could have been trained to move quickly, just as your body was trained to move quickly . . . but your parents lacked the knowledge or the patience to do it.

"That sounds silly," you say. "How can a grown person train a little child to make decisions?"

By letting that child make up his own mind—which he is more than willing to do. By encouraging him to make up his mind . . . by attaching a penalty for delay if he doesn't make it up with reasonable quickness . . . and by FORCING HIM TO ABIDE BY THE CONSEQUENCES. SO HE WILL LEARN TO DISTINGUISH BETWEEN RIGHT AND WRONG DECISIONS.

But, unfortunately, all this is very hard for any adult to do. We're so sure we know more than children. It's such a nuisance to wait while they fuss around. And, secretly, it's so flattering to our egotism to lay down the law. So instead of letting the child make up his own mind, we make it up for him. And, as a consequence, little Willie grows up with no more power of decision than a jelly fish.

"Well, maybe that's so," you answer sadly. "But my parents didn't believe in those things and they didn't train me. What can I do now?"

You can do what your parents failed to do. Hesitation isn't something that Fate has hung on you for life. It is only a habit—a slovenly, mental habit. Begin to cure that habit. Go about it as you'd go about the curing of any other habit. If you were addicted to biting your nails, what would you do? You'd refuse to bite them whenever the urge came. And you'd fortify that refusal by continually telling yourself how disgusting and deforming the habit of nail biting was.

Then attack your hesitation habit in the same way. The next time you have to make a decision, fight that urge to fuss and fumble and postpone. MAKE THE DECISION. MAKE IT QUICKLY.

"But maybe I'll make it wrong!"

The chances are that you WILL make it wrong—just as a youngster makes his decisions wrong, when he is learning to decide. But what of it? One wrong decision—or a thousand—won't do you half as much harm as a chronic habit of indecision.

ISN'T IT SO?

It is better to have a fire in the furnace than in the eyes of a wife.

Hope crushed to earth will get up and take the steering wheel again.

A road hog is a fellow who always meets you more than half way.

It's times like these that p the "stall" in installment.

A man should be complimente if he is able to make some woman happy.

The most unfortunate thin about common sense is that it is so unfashionable.
